Mayor Cady Moves to Curb Bill Passing

LITTERING LAW TO BE INVOKED BY EXECUTIVE

Councilmen Discuss Problem, But Submit Question To Higher Authority

MANY COMPLAINTS HEARD

Distribution In Cars Ended By Official Decree

First steps toward curbing bill passing in Circleville were taken Thursday by Mayor William B. Cady.

Mayor Cady issued a warning that bill passing in automobiles will be prohibited and bills passed at homes must be left in such a way they will not be blown into yards or streets.

"Violators of the warning will be subject to fines under the city ordinance against littering our streets," Mayor Cady said, and it increases for subsequent offenses.

Mayor Cady's warning resulted from a discussion of bill passing during a recess session of city council Wednesday evening.

Legislation Asked

Councilman William M. Reid, who has been interested in legislation to regulate bill passing, had asked Carl C. Leist, solicitor, to prepare legislation to regulate the nuisance. Mr. Leist prepared an ordinance prohibiting bill passing in automobiles.

Councilmen took no action on the ordinance because it was not presented during the regular session. They referred the question to Mayor Cady.

Numerous complaints have been made to councilmen about the nuisance. Bills thrown in automobiles in the downtown district usually go into the streets. Cleaning up these bills has been a problem for the city service department.

No Action Taken

Although numerous complaints have been made to councilmen about bill passing, no action has been taken by council to establish regulations. Many central Ohio cities have regulations against the nuisance.

BOB BURNS' SALARY OF $1,500 IN 1934 JUMPS TO $470,000 IN LAST YEAR

HOLLYWOOD, May 19—(UP)—Another Hollywood "Rags to riches" story was revealed today when Bob Burns, comedian, told a court his income had increased from $1,500 in 1934 to $400,000 last year.

The high price the movies and radio pay for bazooka-playing and an Arkansas draw was cited by Burns in a deposition filed in support of his suit against Radio Transcription Company of America, Ltd., Charles C. Pyle and others.

Burns asked an injunction restraining them from using transcribed programs he made with other entertainers five years ago. The old programs are not up to the standard of his work today, and would be injurious to his reputation, Burns contended.

JURY'S INQUIRY OF DAVEY FUND MAY END JUNE 2

COLUMBUS, May 19—(UP)—The special grand jury investigating charges that civil service employees were assessed to finance Governor Davey's campaign will complete its work on June 2 or 3, Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy announced today.

The grand jury is to recess for two days next week, probably Monday and Tuesday, to enable the attorney general's staff to summarize evidence and determine which witnesses should be called to give corroborative evidence.

After the grand jury quits taking testimony, another week will be required for preparation of its report and, possibly, of indictments.

Judge Will P. Stephenson, assistant attorney general, said about 40 persons have been named so far as collectors of solicitors of campaign funds.

Eighteen witnesses appeared before the grand jury yesterday, making a total of 250 who have testified in three weeks. Others were summoned today.

CROP INSURANCE CONFABS START EARLY IN JUNE

Township meetings for explanation of the 1939 federal crop insurance program will be arranged in the early part of June, Paul Matthes, county compliance agent under the A. A. A., said Thursday.

A delegation of Pickaway county farmers, all township representatives under the crop insurance program, went to Urbana Wednesday to attend a district meeting for explanation of the program. A series of township meetings will be arranged to present the insurance plan to farmers.

Due to graduation exercises and various other rural activities scheduled for the remainder of this month the series of meetings will not be opened until June.

Corn acreage and total soil depleting crop allotments under the 1938 farm program were posted on the courthouse bulletin board Thursday by Mr. Matthes for public inspection.

No date for accepting applications under the 1938 program has been set.

Ability of President and Farley to Heal Party Wounds to Be Tested; Oregon's Primary Election Gets Attention

WASHINGTON, May 19—(UP)—The New Deal's hold on politically strategic Pennsylvania appeared today to be slipping and jubilant Republicans said that this foreshadowed a sharp November upturn in G.O.P. fortunes.

No Democratic chieftain publicly conceded that any fatal weakness had been exposed by the rip-snorting primary in Pennsylvania. But private expressions of some party congressmen coincided with Republican judgments that Pennsylvania and possibly other states are pointing back toward Republican control.

Loss of Pennsylvania, won by Democrats in 1934 for the first time since the Civil war, would be a serious blow to the New Deal and will might prove a determining factor in the critical struggle of 1940.

The "if" in that judgment centered on President Roosevelt, on his ability and that of National Chairman James A. Farley to heal bleeding party wounds. It depended even more, possibly, on reaction of November voters to candidacies based on and backed by the President's personal leadership.

Lewis Prime Issue
Mr. Roosevelt was not the issue in Tuesday's Democratic primary. The issue there, in large part, was the Committee for Industrial Organization and John L. Lewis, and to that issue the voters gave answer by repudiating the chief C.I.O. candidate, Thomas A. Kennedy.

Tomorrow, political eyes turn to Oregon. There, a full continent removed from Pennsylvania's strife and storm, lines have been drawn with tact, if not open, White House consent in the Democratic gubernatorial primary.

Gov. Charles H. Martin opposes Henry Hess, state legislator, and others for renomination. This will test on a new battleground the division of Democratic forces which, in the South, brought victories to New Deal Senators Lister Hill of Alabama and Claude Pepper of Florida.

In some respects the Oregon contest is a more direct barometer of White House influence. Mr. Roosevelt has reiterated that he is not participating in party primaries. Prior to that reiteration, however, White House Secretary Stephen T. Early formally had repudiated an alleged remark to the President to Martin that "you and I make a good pair."

FATHERS REFUSE TO WHIP SONS DESPITE DECREE

FITCHBURG, Mass., May 19—(UP)—Two fathers rebelled today against a court order that they horsewhip their sons for thievery.

The unusual decree was issued yesterday by white-haired 84-year-old District Judge Thomas F. Gallagher after the strapping defendants, Harold Woodworth, 16, and William Allen, 15, had admitted stealing 12 pounds of wire from the Boston & Maine railroad.

"That punishment is to much," protested Harry J. Woodworth. "My boy won't be forced to suffer it. This was his first mistake. He told me that he did it for devilry, and I believe him. I'll punish him, but it'll be in my own way."

It appeared that Father Woodworth objected not so much to the horsewhipping as to Judge Gallagher's stipulation that it be administered "in the police station under the supervision of a probation officer."

Joseph Allen, who has raised 12 children, declared "I can't do it. I care too much for my boy." Moreover, he said, he has a heart ailment that might be aggravated by the exertion of wielding the whip.

Judge Gallagher ruled that the "good sound horsewhipping" must be administered before June 8, to which date he continued the cases.

The youth testified that his mother cried "My God, let me alone and let me die in peace" when she was being beaten with the butt of a pistol after she had been shot.

Clifford Mosley, 13, another son, told the jury his father had beaten his mother three weeks before she was slain.

Jess Mosley, 23, a son, testified that his father had said: "I was driven to it." He also told the jury that his father had accused Mrs. Mosley of "running around with other men."

The son testified he did not see the shooting of Mrs. Mosley but that he heard two shots and a woman's scream.

Mrs. Mosley was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Seesholtz of near Stoutsville. She was buried in the Whisler cemetery.

FORD ATTORNEY MOVES AGAINST BOARD'S RULING

NEW YORK, May 19—(UP)—Counsel for the Ford Motor company sought court permission today to take depositions from 33 staff members of the National Labor Relations board and one attorney for the United Automobile Workers union, in an effort to prove that the board was "influenced" in its decision against the company.

Frederick H. Wood, Ford counsel who has offices here, made public the copy of a petition he has mailed to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals at Covington, Ky., where the company and the board are in conflict.

"The case is an outgrowth of the board's order to Ford to reinstate 29 workers on the grounds that they were discharged for union activity."

Wood's new petition asks permission to question the 34 persons on four subjects:

"1. That the board denied the company a full, fair and open hearing."

"2. That the board in arriving at its decision in the Ford case was influenced by extraneous considerations of a political nature and otherwise."

"3. That the board improperly consulted with persons other than members of the board or its staff; and"

"4. That the board instead of adhering to the role of the just judge, permitted its prosecuting arm to be influenced by its judicial arm."

DOCTORS DECIDE TO TRY X-RAY ON CHICAGO INFANT

CHICAGO, May 19—(UP)—Helaine Judith Colan, the baby afflicted with retinal glioma, dread cancerous malady, will be treated today with supervoltage x-ray in a final, desperate attempt to save at least part of her vision.

She is now eight weeks old. She underwent an operation May 9 for removal of her left eye which had been rendered sightless by the disease. The operation was performed at Garfield Park hospital less than an hour after a jury of eye, brain and x-ray specialists had agreed it was the only chance of saving her life.

The disease, if not checked, usually spreads along the optic nerve to the brain, bringing certain death. Six of the specialists conferred again yesterday, after having studied the left eye, and decided to subject the baby to the x-ray treatments. They will be administered daily for three weeks at Mercy hospital by Dr. Henry Schmitz, chief radiologist.

Helaine was removed from Garfield hospital last night and taken to the home of her maternal grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. Morris Hershsman.

Dr. Robert Good, who performed the operation, said the tumor in the baby's right eye had continued to grow since removal of the left eye. He said, however, that there was no immediate necessity of removing it.

BULLETIN

SHANGHAI, May 20—(FRIDAY)—(UP)—Japanese troops completed occupation of Suchow early today, Japanese sources announced, after street to street fighting through the smoke of many fires which spread over the city from exploding munition dumps.

SHANGHAI, May 19—(UP)—The city of Suchow, heart of central China's railroad communication system, fell to the Japanese today after one of the bloodiest battles of the war, Japanese sources announced.

A Japanese radio broadcast from the "front lines" at 10 p. m. said that 90 percent of the city had been occupied. It was indicated, however, that sharp fighting still was in progress in the streets.

The announcer claimed that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek had personally directed the Suchow defense and had fled by airplane when defeat was apparent.

Troops Mopping Up
The Japanese reportedly fought their way into the city foot by foot in the face of stubborn resistance. Systematically they wiped out machine gun nests and drove into the heart of Suchow which they claimed to be mopping up tonight.

They attacked the city from the west side and, gaining a foothold, advanced with bayonet and hand (Continued on Page Eight)

BULLETIN

SHANGHAI, May 20.—(FRIDAY)—(UP)—Japanese troops completed occupation of Suchow early today, Japanese sources announced, after street to street fighting through the smoke of many fires which spread over the city from exploding munition dumps.

SHANGHAI, May 19.—(UP)—The city of Suchow, heart of central China's railroad communication system, fell to the Japanese today after one of the bloodiest battles of the war, Japanese sources announced.

A Japanese radio broadcast from the "front lines" at 10 p. m. said that 90 percent of the city had been occupied. It was indicated, however, that sharp fighting still was in progress in the streets.

The announcer claimed that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek had personally directed the Suchow defense and had fled by airplane when defeat was apparent.

Troops Mopping Up

The Japanese reportedly fought their way into the city foot by foot in the face of stubborn resistance. Systematically they wiped out machine gun nests and drove into the heart of Suchow which they claimed to be mopping up tonight.

They attacked the city from the west side, gaining a foothold, advanced with bayonet and hand (Continued on Page Eight)

Solons Considering Boost In Utilities Excise Tax Measure

MORE MONEY REQUIRED

Administration Of State's Aid Discussed

COLUMBUS, May 19—(UP)—A movement to enlist big city support behind a plan to pledge anticipated sales tax proceeds and an increased utilities excise tax to finance relief for the rest of the year appeared to be gaining headway in the legislature today.

Despite denials by spokesmen for the League of Ohio Municipalities that they would yield on their pleas for enabling legislation to open new tax fields to local governments, it was learned that some of their representatives last night went over legislation to increase the utilities tax and extend the levy through 1942.

Bill to increase the rate from .65 of one percent to one percent was sponsored by Sen. Dan Thomas, D., Montgomery. His measure re-enacting the tax through 1942 and permitting subdivisions to borrow in anticipation of collections was estimated to yield between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000.

Notes Favored

Thomas also favored issuance of notes in anticipation of collection in 1939 of $6,000,000 in sales tax revenues already promised for relief, and approached several city officials on the proposal. A bill to this effect was introduced in the senate yesterday by Sen. Keith Lawrence, D., Cuyahoga.

A factor giving impetus to the movement was an understanding in some quarters that utility interests might not oppose a higher state utility excise tax so vigorously as a broad increase in the taxing powers of all local subdivisions.

It was understood efforts would be continued to earmark the admissions and beer taxes through 1940 for relief purposes also.

While senate leaders urged submission of a program to a vote by the middle of next week, the possibility of delay prompted some city members in the house to sound sentiment for an immediate emergency appropriation to take care of pressing needs.

It was understood efforts to appropriate $1,000,000 or $2,000,000 from the general revenue fund might be undertaken, particularly if the house committee investigating city relief requirements is slow in submitting a report.

Hearings Scheduled

The house taxation committee was scheduled to begin hearings today on bills authorizing borrowing against extended state taxes and allowing local governments to levy the same excise taxes as may now be imposed by the state.

The senate taxation and relief committee and the house welfare committee continued hearings on administrative measures. The senate group restored a previously deleted clause requiring relief applicants to appear to receive relief orders.

It was to reach a decision today on whether to make county or municipal and township officials responsible for relief administration or to provide an optional clause.

Also scheduled to come before it were the Lawrence bill authorizing borrowing in anticipation of delinquent tax collections for relief and the Baggott-Kane bill appropriating $1,000,000 to the welfare department for use in WPA and PWA projects to improve state institutions.

LaFollette's Committee May Probe Jersey City

WASHINGTON, May 19—(UP)—Sen. Robert M. La Follette, Prog., Wis., indicated today that with proper financing his civil liberties committee probably would investigate charges that civil liberties had been violated by Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City.

La Follette told friends this shortly after the senate had voted a $60,000 appropriation to continue the committee's work and Attorney General Homer S. Cummings had admitted that agents of the criminal division of the Department of Justice are investigating the Jersey City situation.

Cummings revealed that his investigation had been under way "a week or two." He said that the federal government's interest in the situation was two-fold:

1. Whether the forcible ejection of Norman Thomas, socialist leader, from Jersey City several weeks ago was a kidnapping within the meaning of the Lindbergh law.
2. Whether civil rights have been denied, which would be a violation of a 68-year-old statute forbidding any group of two or more persons conspiring to deprive any person or persons of constitutional or statutory rights.

The current Harlan, Ky., trial of coal operators is based on this.

Complaints Filed

Cummings said that Thomas had filed complaints with a United States commissioner charging violation of the law, and that in view of this, the question should be left in the hands of the courts.

The justice department's inquiry was started about May 8, when Reps. Jerry O'Connell, D., Mont., and John T. Bernard, F-L, Minn., were persuaded by friends to give up their attempt to speak in Jersey City after being denied permits. Cummings said, however, that he had not received protests from either congressman.

O'Connell and Bernard hailed the justice department's announcement as a direct result of their unsuccessful trip to New York. Late yesterday afternoon O'Connell revealed on the house floor that he again had been denied a permit to speak in Jersey City on May 21 on the ground that he is "personally obnoxious" to the people of Jersey City.

CONGRESS MAY CLOSE SESSION ABOUT JUNE 4

President's Recovery Bill To Reach Senate Floor Next Monday

HEARINGS COMPLETED

Amendments To Be Studied In Friday Confab

WASHINGTON, May 19—(UP)—Congressional adjournment by June 4 appeared nearer to realization today as plans were completed to take President Roosevelt's $3,154,425,000 recovery bill to the senate floor Monday.

Simultaneously, the house appropriations committee notified the budget bureau that further requests for deficiency appropriations would not be accepted after Saturday night. The committee wants to present the final deficiency bill next week.

"We don't want the appropriations committee to stand in the way of adjournment," one member said.

Under present plans each house will start the last lap of the current session with a major bill: the senate with the pump priming measure and the house with the wages and hours bill, forced to the floor next Monday by petition.

Senate hearings on the vast lending-spending bill were concluded yesterday after a group of minor administrative agencies had presented requests for more funds. Their demands resulted from a house cut of a presidential estimate of $50,000,000 to less than $20,000,000, seriously upsetting the 1939 plans of agencies like the national emergency council, which wanted $1,000,000,000 and was voted $250,000.

The senate group will meet again tomorrow to consider the bill for amendments. They expect to report the bill to the full committee and then to the senate on Saturday.

The final deficiency appropriation will wrap up in an omnibus bill a group of miscellaneous requests. Among those now pending is a supplemental naval estimate from President Roosevelt including $5,000,000,000 to start construction of two replacement battleships, which, if granted, would give the navy six new battleships under construction.

Well informed congressmen understood that still another supplemental estimate would be received before Saturday night, asking money for construction of two more light cruisers, and five new auxiliary vessels—two large and two small seaplane tenders and a repair ship.

CORONER CALLS INQUEST AFTER PLANE TRAGEDY

Why Test Pilot Was Off Regular Lane Studied By Authorities

DENSE FOG IS BLAMED

Bodies Of Nine Victims Lie In Mortuary

LOS ANGELES, May 19—(UP)—Coroner Frank Nance today summoned officials of the Lockheed Aircraft corporation and airport workers to appear at tomorrow's inquest into the deaths of nine persons in an airplane crash Monday in the Sierra Pelona mountains.

Nance sought to determine why it was that Pilot Sid Willey was flying low through a heavy fog instead of high in the radio beam, where regular passenger planes were experiencing no difficulty.

Willey, a Lockheed test pilot, was at the controls when the new $80,000 plane rammed a mountain-side and exploded 50 miles north of here.

"Witnesses told me that the airplane was flying only about 500 feet above the ground," Nance said. "Under these circumstances, I believe it is proper for this office to investigate."

The inquest will be held in a mortuary at San Fernando, where the bodies of three men, four women and two little children were taken after they were removed from the wreckage of the plane yesterday.

Witnesses told me that the airplane was flying only about 500 feet above the ground," Nance said. "Under these circumstances, I believe it is proper for this office to investigate."

The inquest will be held in a mortuary at San Fernando, where the bodies of three men, four women and two little children were taken after they were removed from the wreckage of the plane yesterday.

Turned Back, Belief

It appeared that he found the fog too thick as he flew through Mint canyon. Apparently he turned back and circled, seeking a nearby emergency landing field, and guided the ship into the side of St. Strom at 200 miles an hour. A wing tip hit first, indicating he had time for one last bank. The plane skidded, bounced 1,000 feet and was wrecked. The occupants died instantly. The gasoline tanks exploded, and the bodies were burned almost beyond recognition.

The firm insuring the plane denied a report that the policy had required Willey to fly in sight of the ground. A. C. Harris, Pacific coast manager of the Aero Insurance Co., said the policy only required Willey to obey the regular airline rules of the Bureau of Air Commerce.

Robert E. Gross, Lockheed president, said "The preponderance of evidence clearly indicates that the cause of the accident was the sudden encounter with fog of unexpected density."

Funeral Delayed

Funeral arrangements for the victims were delayed because of the inquest. Besides Willey, the dead were:

Fred Whittemore, 42, St. Paul; Henry W. Salisbury, 26, St. Paul; Salisbury's wife, Betty Clare, 25, and their two children, Richard, 3, and Judith, 2 1/2 months; Mrs. Carl Squier, 34, North Hollywood; Lola Totty, 24, Glendale, Calif.; and Miss Evelyn Dingle, 22, St. Paul.

MILLER WARNS MOTORISTS WHO REMOVE BARRICADES

Motorists who remove barricades and drive over streets that are being improved by the service department will be subject to fines, L. E. Miller, service director, warned Thursday.

Mr. Miller said he had experienced some difficulty with this nuisance on Clinton street, being improved from the Pennsylvania railroad tracks to Mound street.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU

BY BOB BURNS

Every time I pick up a magazine, I see where some other woman is out for the title of "the best dressed woman in Hollywood." It's a nice title if you can get it but it's pretty hard on the husbands.

The other day a husband came home from a party and he was telling his wife about how nice a certain lady looked at the party, and he said, "I couldn't help noticing how simply and modestly she was dressed." The wife said, "yes, that woman would do anything to attract attention."

County Seat Is Toured; News From Community

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Phone Ashville 79

Dropped into the County Seat for a little while Wednesday to see if things had settled down on an even keel since the Big Caravan Day and how Ben. Hedges and Mayor Cady's "lower courts" are rambling along. Every few days we have some "tough cases" in our Supreme Court coming up and to be heard from that "lower court."

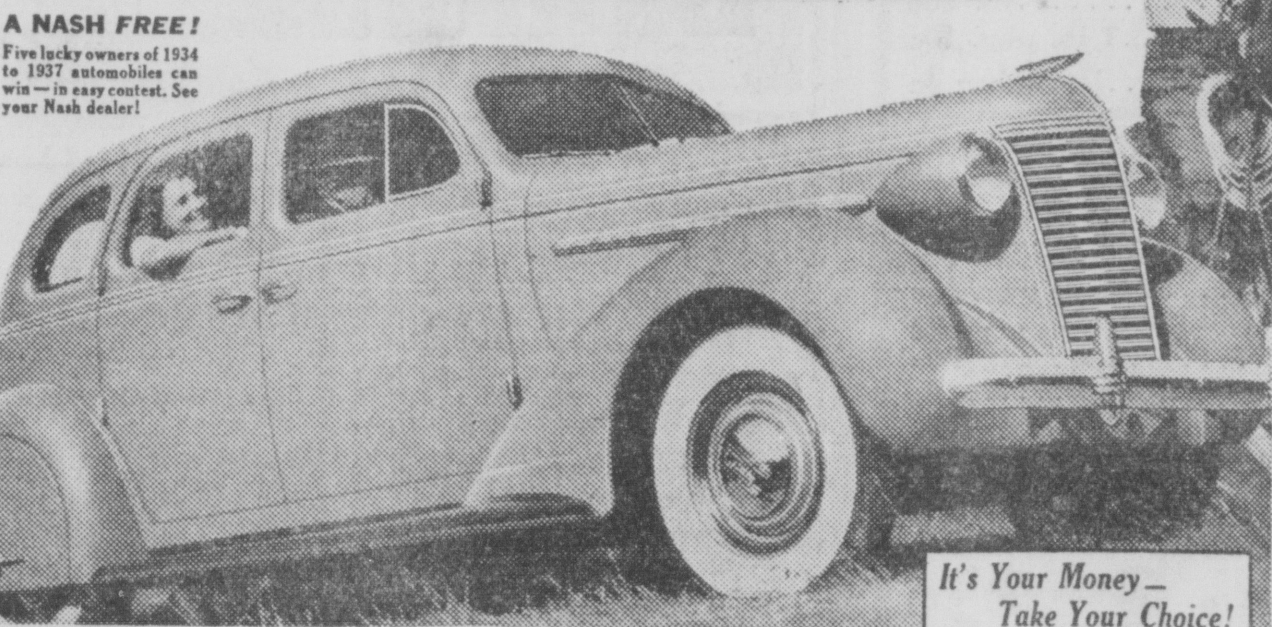

Rader, Cryder, Herrmann, Plum are a few of the many who get into our court and always, when given a "probation sentence" promise "to do better next time." But this is not what we want to tell you about. Courts are with us every day and just common things, but when a high school class in journalism, teacher and all, "take charge of" a daily paper. The Circleville Herald, as we saw them doing yesterday, that's news.

The class is composed of both young men and women and we suspect for most part, juniors and seniors. Contacted a couple of the ones who seemed to be most interested in what was going on, and the young man whom we asked how he thought he'd like the work, said it was his ambition to own a plant of his own. And one of the young ladies said she always thought she would like to be a writer. Asked several of them if they knew Pat Kirwin and all had words of praise for him and hoped they could do as well. He is working on one of the Cincinnati papers. Never forget Pat. He was a cub reporter for The Herald when we were "sticking around" the court house for a couple of years with Bryce and William Briggs, Tom Krinn and "Katy." Bryce, especially, was tough on him and gave him many a "hot tip" on news. But Pat refused to be licked and took it all good naturedly. In newspaper work or not, all these youngsters have our kindest wishes for their success.

AT THE CLIFTONA
Gladys Swarthout, John Boles and John Barrymore head the cast of a witty comedy studded with brilliant songs in "Romance in the Dark," the Paramount picture which opens Friday at the Cliftona Theatre.

Miss Swarthout, in the role of the singer who must first turn housemaid and then princess to get her big chance, and Boles, the stage favorite who creates a bewitching Cinderella who later conquers his heart, sing their way to romance while John Barrymore adds his comedy to the piece.

After making a celebrity out of his serving-girl and palming her off on Barrymore, his manager, as a Persian princess in order to take his mind off a countess they are both pursuing, Boles realizes that he has been too successful and has fallen in love with the result of his handiwork.

Although Miss Swarthout loves Boles, she turns on him in anger when she learns that she has only been used to further his romance with the countess, and accepts Barrymore's offer to appear in his new show. As a "Persian princess" she is a spectacular hit, but when a newspaper exposes her as a fake, the audience denounces her and starts a barrage of carrots and old tomatoes.

AT THE GRAND
Don Wilson, featured in Universal's romantic comedy, "Behind the Mike," at the Grand Theatre began his radio career by singing for a chain grocery company in Denver. He rose from that to become announcer on the Jack Benny program. "Behind the Mike" is his first featured role in pictures. He got his first dramatic experience at the University of Colorado, where he tackled football when he was not tackling top tenor notes.

The "seven dimensions of intellect," according to a Chicago university professor, are: Memory, induction, word fluency, number facility, verbal reasoning, perceptual speed and visualizing ability.

CORONER CALLS INQUEST AFTER PLANE TRAGEDY

Why Test Pilot Was Off Regular Lane Studied By Authorities

DENSE FOG IS BLAMED

Bodies Of Nine Victims Lie In Mortuary

LOS ANGELES, May 19—(UP)—Coroner Frank Nance today summoned officials of the Lockheed Aircraft corporation and airport workers to appear at tomorrow's inquest into the deaths of nine persons in an airplane crash Monday in the Sierra Pelona mountains.

Nance sought to determine why it was that Pilot Sid Willey was flying low through a heavy fog instead of high in the radio beam, where regular passenger planes were experiencing no difficulty.

Willey, a Lockheed test pilot, was at the controls when the new $80,000 plane rammed a mountain-side and exploded 50 miles north of here.

"Witnesses told me that the airplane was flying only about 500 feet above the ground," Nance said. "Under these circumstances, I believe it is proper for this office to investigate."

The inquest will be held in a mortuary at San Fernando, where the bodies of three men, four women and two little children were taken after they were removed from the wreckage of the plane yesterday.

Turned Back, Belief

It appeared that he found the fog too thick as he flew through Mint canyon. Apparently he turned back and circled, seeking a nearby emergency landing field, and guided the ship into the side of St. Strom at 200 miles an hour. A wing tip hit first, indicating he had time for one last bank. The plane skidded, bounced 1,000 feet and was wrecked. The occupants died instantly. The gasoline tanks exploded, and the bodies were burned almost beyond recognition.

The firm insuring the plane denied a report that the policy had required Willey to fly in sight of the ground. A. C. Harris, Pacific coast manager of the Aero Insurance Co., said the policy only required Willey to obey the regular airline rules of the Bureau of Air Commerce.

Robert E. Gross, Lockheed president, said "the preponderance of evidence clearly indicates that the cause of the accident was the sudden encounter with fog of unexpected density."

Funeral Delayed

Funeral arrangements for the victims were delayed because of the inquest. Besides Willey, the dead were:

Fred Whittemore, 42, St. Paul; Henry W. Salisbury, 26, St. Paul; Salisbury's wife, Betty Clare, 25, and their two children, Richard, 3, and Judith, 2½ months; Mrs. Carl Squier, 34, North Hollywood; Lola Totty, 24, Glendale, Calif.; and Miss Evelyn Dingle, 22, St. Paul.

YEAR'S SEARCH CLUELESS FOR MISSING CO-ED

Dormitory, Nothing
Else Is Known

MANY 'LEADS' FALSE

Belmont County Prisoner's
Story Deflated

CLEVELAND, May 19—(UP)—Slightly more than a year ago, some time between 11:15 P.M., May 4, 1937, and the morning of May 5, Ruth Baumgardner, Ohio Wesleyan University co-ed from suburban Lakewood, O., walked out of her college dormitory—either by her own free will or by coercion. She has not been heard from since.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Baumgardner, still retain the William J. Burns detective agency to direct the search for their daughter.

Dozens of leads to the girl's whereabouts have poured into the detective agency and into the parents' home ever since Miss Baumgardner was found missing. Many of them were followed up without success. For a time, Mr. and Mrs. Baumgardner posted a $500 reward for information leading to the finding of their daughter, but to no avail.

Had Little Money

The meager facts known about the co-ed's disappearance are these: She last was seen in pajamas and a lounge robe near her dormitory room in Delaware, O. Next morning, she had vanished. She left behind all her possessions except a brown suit, hat, pair of shoes and a pocketbook presumably containing only $3 or $4.

One of the best substantiated clues was one which developed shortly after Miss Baumgardner was discovered missing. Two women reported that they had seen a girl, answering to the description of the co-ed, hitchhiking in Zanesville, O., shortly before noon the day her disappearance was noted.

The girl hitch-hiker was accompanied by a boy. Gaston Stickler, Cleveland manager of the Burns Detective Agency, attached importance to this clue because the two women noted the hitch-hikers before they knew that Miss Baumgardner was missing.

The widespread publicity of the case has brought many letters, telegrams, phone calls and purported clues from "cranks." A sensational development in the case last December has not yet been proved in this category—neither has it been proved otherwise.

Prisoner's Story Deflated
A prisoner in the Belmont county jail at St. Clairsville, O., told authorities that his cellmate and three other Pittsburghers had abducted Miss Baumgardner from Delaware.

They believed, apparently, that she might be ransomed. The cellmate and racketeers, however, subsequently were indicted for the slaying of a state patrolman. An exhaustive investigation failed to produce any evidence that the four men were connected with Miss Baumgardner's disappearance.

Burns operatives virtually have canvassed the United States in tracking down every semblance of a clue.

Police, highway patrolmen, newspaper reporters, Miss Baumgardner's schoolmates and sorority sisters have helped in the search at one time or another.

And still Mr. and Mrs. Baumgardner retain hope that their daughter is alive and that some day they will have her with them again.

BRITON SPENDS LITTLE, ROAMS 750,000 MILES

LONDON (UP)—One need not be rich to see the world, M. P. Lindsey, a typical London suburbanite, declares.

Lindsey has traveled approximately 750,000 miles in 41 years. With a home-made tent, 20 years old, which cost him $4, he has traveled by cycle, bus, train, or on foot through every country in Europe. He has crossed the Sahara on a camel, camped in Turkey, tramped 200 miles beyond the Arctic Circle, and is now preparing a trip to Canada. His trip across the Sahara was the longest he has yet made. It was 5,500 miles.

The only language he speaks is English. "Learning languages is just a waste of time," he said. "If you want anything, draw it. Anyone can understand that."

In Lapland, Lindsey sketched a reindeer to obtain meat. Most of his traveling has been done alone, while sometimes he has gone with members of the Camping Club of which he is vice chairman. To all those who haven't much money and who want to travel, he gives these words of advice:

"Go third class and, on continental trains, sleep on the luggage rack."

Dormitory, Nothing
Else Is Known

MANY 'LEADS' FALSE

Belmont County Prisoner's
Story Deflated

CLEVELAND, May 19—(UP)—Slightly more than a year ago, some time between 11:15 P.M., May 4, 1937, and the morning of May 5, Ruth Baumgardner, Ohio Wesleyan University co-ed from suburban Lakewood, O., walked out of her college dormitory—either by her own free will or by coercion. She has not been heard from since.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Baumgardner, still retain the William J. Burns detective agency to direct the search for their daughter.

Dozens of leads to the girl's whereabouts have poured into the detective agency and into the parents' home ever since Miss Baumgardner was found missing. Many of them were followed up without success. For a time, Mr. and Mrs. Baumgardner posted a $500 reward for information leading to the finding of their daughter, but to no avail.

Had Little Money

The meager facts known about the co-ed's disappearance are these: She last was seen attired in pajamas and a lounging robe near her dormitory room in Delaware, O. Next morning, she had vanished. She left behind all her possessions except a brown suit, hat, pair of shoes and a pocketbook presumably containing only $3 or $4.

One of the best substantiated clues was one which developed shortly after Miss Baumgardner was discovered missing. Two women reported that they had seen a girl, answering to the description of the co-ed, hitchhiking in Zanesville, O., shortly before noon the day her disappearance was noted.

The girl hitch-hiker was accompanied by a boy, Gaston Stickler, Cleveland manager of the Burns Detective Agency, attached importance to this clue because the two women noted the hitch-hikers before they knew that Miss Baumgardner was missing.

The widespread publicity of the case has brought many letters telegrams, phone calls and purported clues from "cranks." A sensational development in the case last December has not yet been proved in this category—neither has it been proved otherwise.

Prisoner's Story Deflated

A prisoner in the Belmont county jail at St. Clairsville, O., told authorities that his cellmate and three other Pittsburghers had abducted Miss Baumgardner from Delaware.

They believed, apparently, that she might be ransomed. The cellmate and racketeers, however, subsequently were indicted for the slaying of a state patrolman. An exhaustive investigation failed to produce any evidence that the four men were connected with Miss Baumgardner's disappearance.

Burns operatives virtually have canvassed the United States in tracking down every semblance of a clue.

Police, highway patrolmen, newspaper reporters, Miss Baumgardner's schoolmates and sorority sisters have helped in the search at one time or another.

And still Mr. and Mrs. Baumgardner retain hope that their daughter is alive and that some day they will have her with them again.

CANARY CONGRESS CALLED
BUDAPEST (UP)—Breeds of canary birds from 16 countries will send representatives to an international congress to be held in Budapest this Spring. A competition of birds from many countries will be held and prizes bestowed for the singing and oral qualities.

GOLF BALL ROUNDUP ON

CHARGING desertion and cruelty, Gilda Freed who shimmied her way to fame, poses for photographers in Los Angeles as she obtained a divorce from Hector de Briceno, son of a wealthy Spaniard.

BRITON SPENDS LITTLE, ROAMS 750,000 MILES

LONDON (UP)—One need not be rich to see the world, M. P. Lindsey, a typical London suburbanite, declares.

Lindsey has traveled approximately 750,000 miles in 41 years. With a home-made tent, 20 years old, which cost him $4, he has traveled by cycle, bus, train, or on foot through every country in Europe. He has crossed the Sahara on a camel, camped in Turkey, tramped 200 miles beyond the Arctic Circle, and is now preparing a trip to Canada. His trip across the Sahara was the longest he has yet made. It was 5,500 miles.

The only language he speaks is English.

"Learning languages is just a waste of time," he said. "If you want anything, draw it. Anyone can understand that."

In Lapland, Lindsey sketched a reindeer to obtain meat.

Most of his traveling has been done alone, while sometimes he has gone with members of the Camping Club of which he is vice chairman. To all those who haven't much money and who want to travel, he gives these words of advice:

"Go third class and, on continental trains, sleep on the luggage rack."

FAITH LOST IN 'GATORS
OAKLAND, Cal. (UP)—Dr. F. T. Barron, dentist, learned something new about teeth when his hand accidentally slipped into the mouth of a young alligator pet.

The attending physician reported that he would not lose his fingers but that he had lost all confidence in 'gators.

Your Gas Range Dollar Has Never Bought So Much Value Before

NOT only are modern gas ranges priced to the times, but they include many advanced features that could not be had at any price on ranges of a few years ago.

Today's gas range provides instant intense heat for the fastest searing or a pinpoint flame for "waterless" cooking. Of course, the top burners are automatically lighted. With their improved efficiency, they use an average of 25 per cent less gas than ranges of 10 years ago. The tops of modern ranges conceal unsightly parts and make them easy to keep spotlessly clean.

Air Conditioned Ovens

Roomy ovens are heavily insulated and provided with accurate temperature controls. You can bake and roast at high or low temperatures in an air conditioned oven. Improved methods of broiling enable you to open a new chapter in attractive food serving. These are but a few of the features that are found within the gleaming porcelain cabinets of a modern gas range.

Cooks Better At Less Cost

Doubtless you still can prepare a good meal on your old gas range, but that is no reason why you should be denied the advantages of a new gas range that cooks better for less cost and with far less effort on your part. And in keeping with Springtime, a beautiful gas range will do much to brighten your kitchen.

I am anxious for a recipe and cooking degree for pulled mints.

The following recipe has proven a favorite, and we print it with pleasure for our readers:

- Pulled Mints
1 C. granulated sugar
2 Tbsp. corn syrup
1 Tbsp. vinegar
1 Tbsp. butter
1/4 C. water
Color and flavor to suit

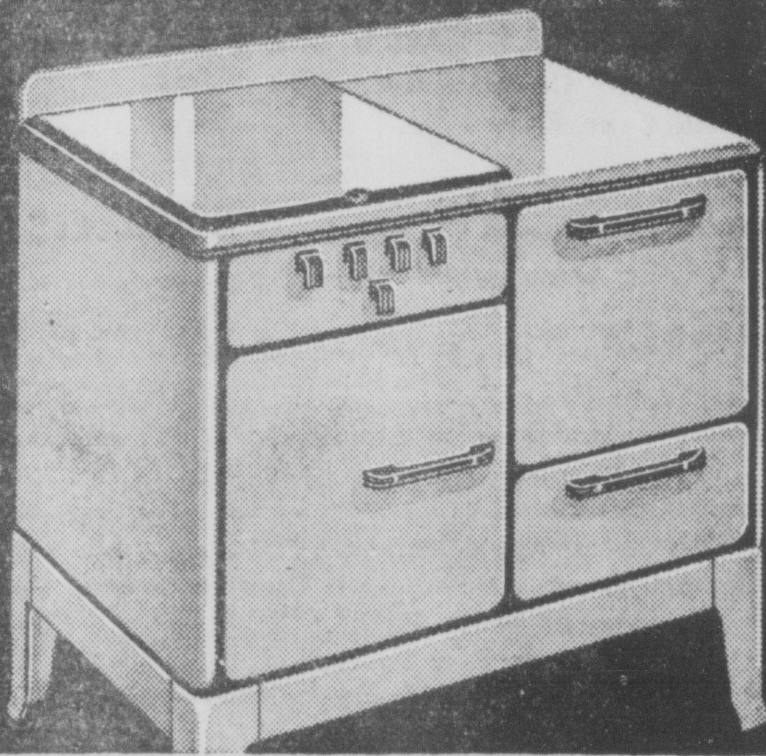

Mix all the ingredients except the color, flavoring and butter in a saucepan. Boil moderately to 260-265 degrees. Add the butter, and boil slowly to 75 to 80 degrees above the temperature of boiling water as registered on the thermometer being used, or to a hard crack by the water test. Remove the saucepan from the heat; wipe off the crystals from the pouring side with a damp cloth, and pour the hot syrup into a lightly buttered pan and allow to cool undisturbed until the cooled sheet may be handled comfortably. Work near or over a heated surface to prevent cooling. As soon as the piece can be pulled, add the desired amount of color and flavoring and pull until the candy has a satin-like finish and is quite elastic. Pull into small, uniform-sized cylinders, the size of a pencil or smaller, and cut into 4 to 6-inch lengths or cut into smaller pieces as desired. When cold and hard, store in closed container.

For molded salads and desserts can you please tell me which fruits sink and which float?

For bottom layers, choose from these fruits which will sink in a gelatine mold: Canned apricots, canned blackberries, canned cherries (Royal Anne or maraschino), canned pears, canned raspberries, fresh grapes, and cooked prunes.

From these ingredients, choose for the top layer, since they float in a gelatine mixture: Diced apples, diced bananas, sections of fresh grapefruit or oranges, sliced fresh peaches and pears, strawberries cut in halves, broken nut meats and cut marshmallows.

Can you tell me how to prepare a fruit cup in which a delicious green mint liquid (non-alcoholic) is the basis. It contains balls of melon.

What is the difference between catsup and ketchup?

Catsup, catchup, and ketchup, according to the dictionary, all refer to the same condiment of which tomato is the chief ingredient.

Please give me a recipe for a Cherry Marshmallow Meringue.

A Cherry Marshmallow Meringue has many uses, and is especially good for fluting the edges of sponge cup cakes which are served with plump canned cherries in the hollow. The meringue is made like this:

- Cherry Marshmallow Meringue
1/4 C. cherry juice
6 Tbsp. sugar
1/4 lb. marshmallows
Red coloring
1/4 tsp. almond extract
2 egg whites

Boil together cherry juice and 4 Tbsp. sugar until thick. Pour 2 Tbsp. thickened cherry juice over marshmallows in a saucepan. Heat over low flame. Fold over and over until marshmallows are half melted. Remove from fire and continue folding until mixture is smooth and fluffy. Add a few drops of food coloring and the almond extract and cool. Beat egg whites until they hold a peak. Add remaining 2 Tbsp. sugar slowly and continue beating until meringue is stiff and smooth. Then pour meringue into saucepan with marshmallow mixture. Combine lightly and force through a pastry tube around the cakes. Place under broiler for 1/2 minute or until meringue browns. Before serving the cake meringues, top with cherry sauce.

What kind of a salad could I serve to my bridge club—a molded salad that is different yet very tasty?

I am sure you will enjoy using this Gingenale and Pear Salad. The gingenale gives your salad a very different but delicious flavor. Here is the recipe:

1/2 Tbsp. sugar
1 Tbsp. chopped maraschino cherries
Few grains salt
1 Tbsp. lemon juice
1/2 C. gingenale
1/2 C. cooked pears, cut in pieces

When beginning to set, stir in pears and cherries. Turn into individual wet molds and chill until firm. Serve on a bed of cress with mayonnaise.

Can you tell me at what stage bananas are best for cooking? For eating?

When bananas are all yellow or have a slight green tip they are best suited for cooking. When the golden-yellow skin is well flecked with brown spots bananas are at a ripe enough stage for eating.

Your Gas Range Dollar Has Never Bought So Much Value Before

NOT only are modern gas ranges priced to the times, but they include many advanced features that could not be had at any price on ranges of a few years ago.

Today's gas range provides instant intense heat for the fastest searing or a pinpoint flame for "waterless" cooking. Of course, the top burners are automatically lighted. With their improved efficiency, they use an average of 25 per cent less gas than ranges of 10 years ago. The tops of modern ranges conceal unsightly parts and make them easy to keep spotlessly clean.

Air Conditioned Ovens

Roomy ovens are heavily insulated and provided with accurate temperature controls.
You can bake and roast at high or low temperatures in an air conditioned oven. Improved methods of broiling enable you to open a new chapter in attractive food serving.

These are but a few of the features that are found within the gleaming porcelain cabinets of a modern gas range.

MEXICO RILED

UNCLE SAM has dealt gently with Mexico, regarding expropriated oil properties and other delicate matters, and our relations with our Aztec-Spanish neighbors continue pleasant.

John Bull, irritated by similar treatment, cracks down on Mexico over a little matter of $88,000 due for old revolutionary damages, and Mexico flares up. The people start marching in Mexico City. The government asks Cousin John why he doesn't pay his own debts, with special reference to the war-loan billions he owes the United States. A leading Mexican newspaper wants to know why Mexico should be baited for owing a little money when the British public debt has risen to $37,000,000,000, and keeps on going up.

It is another indication of the fact that nations and governments nowadays are getting too excitable. We expect it of Latins, but not of Anglo-Saxons. British statesmen might as well keep their sport-shirts on.

AIR PICNICS

A CALIFORNIA flying instructor has developed a novel social practice among his graduates and flying friends. He gets up picnics at points within a radius of 100 miles from the home airport. The invitations, sent out several days in advance, name the destination, which may be an airport near the Pacific or at the base of a mountain or in the desert.

Licensed flyers who do not own planes of their own rent them. There are 40-horsepower flivver planes available which carry ten gallons of gas. They have radios which permit them to fly the airway "beam" and bring in weather reports, although if the weather is bad, the picnic doesn't take place at all.

It is said that as many as fifteen planes have taken off for a single picnic. There is a pleasant flight to the meeting place, an hour or two of picnicking, and a return flight before sun-down.

This is no pastime for inexperienced flyers, of course. Air regulations keep them out of the air except for their regular lessons and practice flights. But for licensed flyers, here is recreation as safe and pleasant as the old style picnic parties when the family set forth in the horse-drawn surrey, or the contemporary family picnic by automobile.

Wary congressmen will soon swarm home, as you might say, hell-bent for election.

You don't hear so much demand any more for shorter hours. Men want to do a full day's work and get a full day's pay.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN.

INDEXES SHOW PICK-UP

WASHINGTON—Black clouds that have overhung the economic skies for the past six months at last are beginning to lift.

That doesn't mean a return of the clear skies is "just around the corner." Far from it. The business pick-up is barely perceptible and conditions have to improve a great deal more before the balmy sun of good times can reappear on the horizon.

What is significant, nevertheless, is that the upturn marks a distinct break in the previous economic trend.

All through the winter and spring this trend was steadily downward. Month after month industrial production, employment, wholesale and retail sales continued to diminish. Now for the first time this tailspin course is reversed.

What makes the improvement doubly encouraging is its presence in key industries. For example, the index of car loadings between April 30 and May 7 jumped from 73.8 to 76.3. As compared to 107.9 a year ago, that is a meager showing, but car loadings are a basic index.

Again, electric power production, another telltale index, rose during this same period from 89.6 to 90.1. Lumber and textile output also increased; the first from 54.4 to 58.5 and the latter from 84.2 to 89.7. Retail sales are even more cheerful.

BETTER BUSINESS

One big obstacle to a revival of production is over-stocked inventories. Some experts estimate these stocks as high as $5,000,000,000. But in the past few weeks inventories have begun to move. Manufacturers have slashed prices and disposed of large quantities to chain-store groups.

Last week more than $12,000,000 worth of off-priced goods were sold in Manhattan alone and the city was filled with buyers looking for more bargains. That means two things: First, that the big retail organizations believe there is a market if the price is right. Second, that shelves and warehouses are being cleared, thus opening the way for new orders to manufacturers.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

It's remarkable what effect the approach of the ballot box has on politics. One of the most persistent foes of Administration measures is Representative Tom McMillan of Charleston, S. C. But when the President embarked in Charleston from his fishing cruise, the first in line to meet him was McMillan. When Roosevelt was safely out of town, McMillan issued a press statement that he had been invited to accompany the President to the Capital but was unable to do so because of private business. . . . Burnet Rhett Maybank, able young mayor of Charleston, has been assured vigorous Administration support in his campaign for Governor. . . . Republican strategists are trying to induce Dr. A. C. Wherry, wealthy Salt Lake dentist, to run against New Deal Senator Elbert D. Thomas of Utah. Some of Wherry's friends are advising him, however, to wait until 1940 and run against Senator King.

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

Anti-New Dealers (Democrats and Republicans both) are considerably more worried than they were concerning coming congressional primaries, not to mention next November's elections.

Before the primary contests began anti-New Dealerism was confident of its ability to renominate and re-elect nearly all "antis" now on Capitol Hill and to beat, for renomination or re-election, a considerable number of Rooseveltian legislators. They scarcely expected to win a clean-cut victory but they did count on material gains for their side.

Since the 100 percent New Dealer, Senator Claude Pepper, was so overwhelmingly renominated in Florida, however, the "anti" contingent has been far less cocky than it was.

FLORIDA "EXPLAINED"

To be sure, the "antis" explain the Florida result in various ways, intended to imply that it was not as significant as it seemed.

They also mention that South Dakota's primary outcome can be anti-New Dealerish interpreted. So it can, but it cannot be so interpreted nearly as emphatically as the Pepper triumph obviously was "pro".

The triumph of another Roose-veltian, Senator Lister Hill of Alabama, also is too recent not to be weighed as a current indication.

ANTIS BAFFLED

It is in these southern states, like Florida and Alabama, that the anti-New Dealers have most depended upon scoring—not by the election of Republicans, but by the nomination of anti-New Deal Democrats.

Cotton and Everglade state primary votes have not been calculated to encourage their hopes. Of course they say, "Pooh, pooh!" but—

There have been some primaries for the nomination or renomination of representatives as well as senators, and, in these representative primaries also the New Dealers have at least held their own.

NEW DEAL FAVORED

There is no sense in blinking the obvious.

The 1938 congressional campaign started off with signs somewhat favoring the New Deal.

No candid "anti" denies it. True, there are few candid folk in either camp. Still, it's a fact.

ARTICULATE

I think the newspapers have been a trifle misled.

As a newspaperman, far be it from me to agree with Senator

Sherman Minton of Indiana that the press deliberately has lied. I resent that charge as much as any journalist can.

But I think there may be a germ of truth in the assertion of WPA Deputy Aubrey Williams that anti-New Dealers are our "most articulate" folk.

THE WHY OF IT

That is to say: We have a New Deal administration—nominally Democratic.

If a Democratic lawmaker defends the supposedly Democratic New Deal, that is no particular news. It is taken for granted that a Democrat will speak for a Democratic regime.

If a Republican lawmaker attacks the Democratic New Deal, that is taken for granted, too.

But if a Democratic lawmaker attacks his own party's New Deal—

That's news. Consequently such a spokesman does get headlines, just as Senator Minton says he does.

Possibly he makes a noise out of proportion to his real influence.

STEWARTS COMMENT

I don't care how it all comes out. That isn't a headache for my generation.

I just comment on the situation as I see it now.

FIESTA

BY OREN ARNOLD

RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Bill Baron, a footloose Texan, and Ellen Dale, Hollywood film star, are staying at the Montoya ranch across the Mexican border where they found themselves after a lucky parachute jump from Baron's plane during a storm. The wealthy Montoya family and Ellen grow alarmed when Bill and Panola, their host's daughter, fail to return from a ride together. Ellen, enchanted by the atmosphere of old Mexico here, finds herself growing much interested in Bill. Don Julio Montoya and his son, Felix, set out to trail the missing couple. Meanwhile, resting after their long ride, Bill and Panola are startled when Bill is suddenly jerked from his horse by a lariat rope. Although Bill puts up a stiff fight, he soon is subdued and held captive by a band of Yaqui Indians. Convinced Bill and Panola have been seized by Indians, Ellen offers to go after them with the aid of two Yaqui Felix had taken prisoner and whom she had befriended. Felix tells Ellen his mother has said she loves Bill.

CHAPTER 10

ELLEN DID NOT ask him immediately when Felix asked his question.

How could she admit or deny that she loved Bill Baron, when she herself did not know? The man was virtually a stranger to her, an aviator whom she had hired in an impulsive moment a few days ago. True, he had saved her life in rather spectacular fashion, and he had a drawing charm of manner. But love? That was another matter!

"Naturally I do not wish harm to come to him," Ellen replied, seriously. She did not include Panola in that wish, but the omission was an unconscious one. "He is an American. He is in danger and I feel an obligation to him." "Then you do not love him?" Felix suddenly jabbed the question. His intent manner surprised her. She looked into his eyes, and gave no answer for a long moment.

"I did not say that," she almost whispered it, finally.

Don Julio had stood looking at the American girl, incredulous. Now he began storming that it was inconceivable for a mere girl to try to rescue Bill Baron and Panola.

It was inconceivable, and yet the idea was not without its possibilities. Don Julio had the political influence necessary to get a detachment of soldiers and could himself have armed several men; but all of these would be wasted in the defiant crags and canyons where the Yaqui Indians lived.

"If we send in men, some will surely lose their lives," Felix reminded his father. "Panola and Senor Baron would likely be first to be killed."

"It is so," the mother added. When Felix had translated for Ellen, she agreed. "And if you or your father went in alone, you would simply be killed or held captive too, wouldn't you? You or any other Mexican man. But I am a stranger to them. An American. Do they hate Americans?"

"No," admitted Felix. "In fact they look to America as escape. There have two Yaqui villages in Arizona, Mees Dale, one near Phoenix, another near Tucson. They are estranjeros—aliens, you say—they have no country. They have been run out of Mexico."

"You mean they were forced out?"

"Yes." "And the United States does not deport them? Then they are ex-patriates?" "Si, senorita! It is the word! And the Yaquis they all look to your country as friends. It is why you might be able to do what you propose, if you are brave."

"I am not afraid."

But Don Julio interrupted with an important thought. How would Ellen communicate with the Indians? She spoke no more than a dozen words of Spanish which she had learned since her arrival in Mexico, and knew nothing of the idiom or dialect of the Yaquis.

That stumped them, evoked much discussion in which Ellen took no part. She was doing some rapid thinking. Suddenly she grabbed Felix Montoya by the arm.

"Come with me for a moment," she commanded. "You know how to talk to them."

She led him, surprisingly, around back of the storehouse to the window of the two imprisoned men. They stared out curiously, and it was plain that hatred for Felix shone in their eyes.

Felix helped her strap a pistol belt on.

"Tell them you translate for me, that you speak for me alone," Ellen commanded. "Tell them I plan to go into their village and get the white girl and man. Ask them where I must go, whom I must see."

The conversation that followed was a rather long one. Felix had some difficulty convincing the prisoners of Ellen's plan.

"They say you can never find the village."

"Oh!" the American girl looked at the men, who stood glued to their bars. "Tell them—ask them if they will go with me, show me the way? Be my interpreters and guides?"

Felix glared at her. "It is impossible!" he declared. "You, a—"

"Tell them! Do as I say! It is my business. You can think of nothing better, no other way to rescue your sister and my friend! Tell them, at once!"

Felix translated again, and this time the conversation was longer. But in the end he had made an amazing deal.

"They say, in return for their freedom, they will escort you right to the village chief and see that Panola and Senor Baron go free!"

"Oh, that's what I want," cried Ellen. "Tell them it's a bargain, and I will pay them well also. Tell them—here, give them these." She removed two rings which she wore and extended the bright trinkets, which were of considerable value, to the Yaqui men.

She couldn't have clinched the deal better. She stayed near the window while Felix hastened to inform his parents, and to get the key to set the prisoners free. The Yaquis stared at her with the same dog-like gratitude in their eyes that they had shown when she brought them food and water.

"It will not be necessary to talk, if you explain everything to them before we start," Ellen reminded Felix. "Make all the arrangements clear. I am not afraid to go with them."

"They can—keep you!" worried Don Julio, his voice rumbling ominously. "These Indians, they—"

"I shall wear a pistol and follow them at some distance, Don Julio. They will do me no harm."

The old Mexican didn't understand her fully, but he could see she was obstinate. He talked to Felix at length.

"Can you handle the gun, the shooting?" Felix asked her.

"I—yes!"

It was not strictly true. Once in a Hollywood movie scene Ellen Dale had been required to fire a pistol, but it was a small one and of course harmless. Never before or since had she even touched one of the things. But she thought best not to go into details now.

"And the horses?"

"I can ride," she said, which was true. She had two horses of her own in Hollywood. She was accustomed to the flat pan-shaped English saddles, but she had an idea the Mexican saddle with its high pommel and cantle wouldn't be any harder to cling to. In that she was right.

While she was making hasty preparations to start, Felix was tying a canteen and a parcel of food on her saddle, and he personally inspected a rifle, loaded it and put it in a saddle holster. Then he assisted her to strap a pistol belt and ammunition on.

All the while Ellen was feeling just a trifle ridiculous. Her mind was really in a sad state of confusion. "Why am I doing all this foolishness?" she asked herself. "Bill Baron is nothing to me. He walked into the trouble. My business is to get out of Mexico as soon as I can and go home."

She told herself that, but she knew it was futile reasoning, knew she would not listen to her own counsel. She had said she wasn't afraid, but she knew she really was very much so.

The Yaqui men were each given a horse and provisions also. When the party was all set to go, Don Julio caused them to halt for a brief moment while he said a prayer. News of the plan had interested everybody about the ranchhouse, so that nearly 30 servants and others were bowed there.

The three were just starting when they were again interrupted, however.

Senora Montoya came hastening out of the house. She herself carried a rifle, and a canteen. Her kindly old face was set with a strange, strained expression. She spoke crisply to her son Felix, as if in command, then to a cowboy who quickly dismounted and turned his horse over to her. A stir and murmuring went through the assembly of Mexicans.

"My mawther," began Felix, addressing Ellen, "she say American woman is no braver than Mexican, and she will go with you, talk for you, help you all she can."

There were no more words. Silently the group watched the strange cavalcade ride away—two savages, leading a woman and a girl. Don Julio stared, transfixed, too appalled to protest.

Electrical Changes That Occur In Human Body

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE HUMAN BODY is an electric field, and changes in electric potential occur with many of its activities. In the modern hospital this fact is daily used by the employment of an apparatus which records the heart beat through the changes in the electric potential associated with the contraction of the heart muscle. But many other, even subtler, changes can be recorded.

For instance, changes in the electric potential of the brain can be measured by an instrument known as the electroencephalogram. To obtain such a record, electrodes are placed close to the head on the different sides and the oscillograph records different waves. These were first described by Hans Berger over a decade ago and are called the "Berger rhythm".

The most prominent waves that occur are regular at the rate of 8 to 15 per second. They are interrupted when the eyes are opened or if a light is flashed, if the experiment is conducted in a darkened room.

Caused by Brain Functioning

The waves evidently are the result of the functioning of the brain, not just casual circulatory changes, because mental activity, such as solving a difficult arithmetical problem, will change or interrupt the rhythm. Slight mental activity, such as being read to or listening to a boring conversation (unless this has emotional effects, as is usually the case) does not affect

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

the rhythm. Intense emotions, such as worry, anxiety, embarrassment, abolish the rhythm altogether. Sleep changes the pattern of the brain rhythm.

This rhythm does not make its appearance until the fourth month of infantile life. After that there is a gradual increase in frequency until the tenth or twelfth year, when the adult frequency is established.

When this apparatus is attached to people in a hypnotic sleep, the pattern of the waves is the same as that of an awake but resting person. The suggestion of light abolishes the waves in a hypnotized person in the same manner as the actual stimulus of light. When, in a daylight room, it was suggested to the hypnotized subject that he was blind, the rhythm appeared; when it was suggested that he could see, the rhythm disappeared.

MEXICO RILED

UNCLE SAM has dealt gently with Mexico, regarding expropriated oil properties and other delicate matters, and our relations with our Aztec-Spanish neighbors continue pleasant.

John Bull, irritated by similar treatment, cracks down on Mexico over a little matter of $88,000 due for old revolutionary damages, and Mexico flares up. The people start marching in Mexico City. The government asks Cousin John why he doesn't pay his own debts, with special reference to the war-loan billions he owes the United States. A leading Mexican newspaper wants to know why Mexico should be baited for owing a little money when the British public debt has risen to $37,000,000,000, and keeps on going up.

It is another indication of the fact that nations and governments nowadays are getting too excitable. We expect it of Latins, but not of Anglo-Saxons. British statesmen might as well keep their sport-shirts on.

AIR PICNICS

A CALIFORNIA flying instructor has developed a novel social practice among his graduates and flying friends. He gets up picnics at points within a radius of 100 miles from the home airport. The invitations, sent out several days in advance, name the destination, which may be an airport near the Pacific or at the base of a mountain or in the desert.

Licensed flyers who do not own planes of their own rent them. There are 40-horsepower flivver planes available which carry ten gallons of gas. They have radios which permit them to fly the airway "beam" and bring in weather reports, although if the weather is bad, the picnic doesn't take place at all.

It is said that as many as fifteen planes have taken off for a single picnic. There is a pleasant flight to the meeting place, an hour or two of picnicking, and a return flight before sun-down.

This is no pastime for inexperienced flyers, of course. Air regulations keep them out of the air except for their regular lessons and practice flights. But for licensed flyers, here is recreation as safe and pleasant as the old style picnic parties when the family set forth in the horse-drawn surrey, or the contemporary family picnic by automobile.

Wearry congressmen will soon swarm home, as you might say, hell-bent for election.

You don't hear so much demand any more for shorter hours. Men want to do a full day's work and get a full day's pay.

World At A Glance

Anti-New Dealers (Democrats and Republicans both) are considerably more worried than they were concerning coming congressional primaries, not to mention next November's elections.

Before the primary contests began anti-New Dealerism was confident of its ability to renominate and re-elect nearly all "antis" now on Capitol Hill and to beat, for renomination or re-election, a considerable number of Rooseveltian legislators. They scarcely expected to win a clean-cut victory but they did count on material gains for their side.

Since the 100 percent New Dealer, Senator Claude Pepper, was so overwhelmingly renominated in Florida, however, the "anti" contingent has been far less cocky than it was.

FLORIDA "EXPLAINED"

To be sure, the "antis" explain the Florida result in various ways, intended to imply that it was not as significant as it seemed.

They also mention that South Dakota's primary outcome can be anti-New Dealerishly interpreted. So it can, but it cannot be so interpreted nearly as emphatically as the Pepper triumph obviously was "pro".

INDEXES SHOW PICK-UP

WASHINGTON—Black clouds that have overhung the economic skies for the past six months at last are beginning to lift.

That doesn't mean a return of the clear skies is "just around the corner." Far from it. The business pick-up is barely perceptible and conditions have to improve a great deal more before the balmy sun of good times can reappear on the horizon.

What is significant, nevertheless, is that the upturn marks a distinct break in the previous economic trend.

All through the winter and spring this trend was steadily downward. Month after month industrial production, employment, wholesale and retail sales continued to diminish. Now for the first time this tailspin course is reversed.

What makes the improvement doubly encouraging is its presence in key industries. For example, the index of car loadings between April 30 and May 7 jumped from 73.8 to 76.3. As compared to 107.9 a year ago, that is a meager showing, but car loadings are a basic index.

Again, electric power production, another telltale index, rose during this same period from 89.6 to 90.1. Lumber and textile output also increased; the first from 54.4 to 58.5 and the latter from 84.2 to 89.7. Retail sales are even more cheerful.

BETTER BUSINESS

One big obstacle to a revival of production is over-stocked inventories. Some experts estimate these stocks as high as $5,000,000,000. But in the past few weeks inventories have begun to move. Manufacturers have slashed prices and disposed of large quantities to chain-store groups.

Last week more than $12,000,000 worth of off-priced goods were sold in Manhattan alone and the city was filled with buyers looking for more bargains. That means two things: First, that the big retail organizations believe there is a market if the price is right. Second, that shelves and warehouses are being cleared, thus opening the way for new orders to manufacturers.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

It's remarkable what effect the approach of the ballot box has on politics. One of the most persistent foes of Administration measures is Representative Tom McMillan of Charleston, S. C. But when the President debarked in Charleston from his fishing cruise, the first in line to meet him was McMillan. When Roosevelt was safely out of town, McMillan issued a press statement that he had been invited to accompany the President to the Capital but was unable to do so because of private business. . . . Burnet Rhett Maybank, able young mayor of Charleston, has been assured vigorous Administration support in his campaign for Governor. . . . Republican strategists are trying to induce Dr. A. C. Wherry, wealthy Salt Lake dentist, to run against New Deal Senator Elbert D. Thomas of Utah. Some of Wherry's friends are advising him, however, to wait until 1940 and run against Senator King.

BY OREN ARNOLD
RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:
Bill Baron, a footloose Texan, and Ellen Dale, Hollywood film star, are staying at the Montoya ranch across the Mexican border where they found themselves after a lucky parachute jump from Baron's plane during a storm. The wealthy Montoya family and Ellen grow alarmed when Bill and Panola, their host's daughter, fail to return from a ride together. Ellen, enchanted by the atmosphere of old Mexico here, finds herself growing much interested in Bill. Don Julio Montoya and his son, Felix, get out to trail the missing couple. Meanwhile, resting after their long ride, Ellen and Panola are startled when Bill is suddenly jerked from his horse by a lariat rope. Although Bill puts up a stiff fight, they soon are subdued and held captive by a band of Yaqui Indians. Convinced Bill and Panola have been seized by Indians, Ellen offers to go after them with the aid of two Yaqui Felix had taken prisoner and whom she had befriended. Felix tells Ellen his mood has changed since he loves Bill.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 10

ELLEN DID NOT answer immediately when Felix asked his question.

How could she admit or deny that she loved Bill Baron, when she herself did not know? The man was virtually a stranger to her, an aviator whom she had hired in an impulsive moment a few days ago. True, he had saved her life in rather spectacular fashion, and he had a drawing charm of manner. But love? That was another matter!

"Naturally I do not wish harm to come to him," Ellen replied, seriously. She did not include Panola in that wish, but the omission was an unconscious one. "He is an American. He is in danger and I feel an obligation to him."

"Then you do not love him?" Felix suddenly jabbed the question. His intent manner surprised her. She looked into his eyes, and gave no answer for a long moment.

"I did not say that," she almost whispered it, finally.

Don Julio had stood looking at the American girl, incredulous.

Now he began storming that it was inconceivable for a mere girl to try to rescue Bill Baron and Panola.

It was unconceivable, and yet the idea was not without its possibilities. Don Julio had the political influence necessary to get a detachment of soldiers and could himself have armed several men; but all of these would be wasted in the defiant crags and canyons where the Yaqui Indians lived.

"If we send in men, some will surely lose their lives," Felix reminded his father. "Panola and Senor Baron would likely be first to be killed."

"It is so," the mother added.

When Felix had translated for Ellen, she agreed. "And if you or your father went in alone, you would simply be killed or held captive too, wouldn't you? You or any other Mexican man. But I am a stranger to them. An American. Do they hate Americans?"

"No," admitted Felix. "In fact they look to America as escape. There have two Yaqui villages in Arizona. Mees Dale, one near Phoenix, another near Tucson. They are estranjeros—aliens, you say—they have no country. They have been run out of Mexico."

"You mean they were forced out?"

"Yes."

"And the United States does not deport them? Then they are ex-patriates?"

"Si, senorita! It is the word! And the Yaquis they all look to your country as friends. It is why you might be able to do what you propose, if you are brave."

"I am not afraid."

But Don Julio interrupted with an important thought. How would Ellen communicate with the Indians? She spoke no more than a dozen words of Spanish which she had learned since her arrival in Mexico, and knew nothing of the idiom or dialect of the Yaquis.

That stumped them, evoked much discussion in which Ellen took no part. She was doing some rapid thinking. Suddenly she grabbed Felix Montoya by the arm.

"Come with me for a moment," she commanded. "You know how to talk to them."

She led him, surprisingly, around back of the storehouse to the window of the two imprisoned men. They stared out curiously, and it was plain that hatred for Felix shone in their eyes.

Felix helped her strap a pistol belt on.

"Tell them you translate for me," that you speak for me alone," Ellen commanded. "Tell them I plan to go into their village and get the white girl and man. Ask them where I must go, whom I must see."

The conversation that followed was a rather long one. Felix had some difficulty convincing the prisoners of Ellen's plan.

"They say you can never find the village."

"Oh!" the American girl looked at the men, who stood glued to their bars. "Tell them—ask them if they will go with me, show me the way? Be my interpreters and guides?"

Felix glared at her.

"It is impossible!" he declared. "You, a—"

"Tell them! Do as I say! It is my business. You can think of nothing better, no other way to rescue your sister and my friend! Tell them, at once!"

Felix translated again, and this time the conversation was longer. But in the end he had made an amazing deal.

"They say, in return for their freedom, they will escort you right to the village chief and see that Panola and Senor Baron go free!"

"Oh, that's what I want," cried Ellen. "Tell them it's a bargain, and I will pay them well also. Tell them—here, give them these." She removed two rings which she wore and extended the bright trinkets, which were of considerable value, to the Yaqui men.

She couldn't have clinched the deal better. She stayed near the window while Felix hastened to inform his parents, and to get the key to set the prisoners free. The Yaquis stared at her with the same dog-like gratitude in their eyes that they had shown when she brought them food and water.

"It will not be necessary to talk, if you explain everything to them before we start," Ellen reminded Felix. "Make all the arrangements clear. I am not afraid to go with them."

"They can—keep you!" worried Don Julio, his voice rumbling ominously. "These Indians, they—"

"I shall wear a pistol and follow them at some distance, Don Julio. They will do me no harm."

The old Mexican didn't understand her fully, but he could see she was obdurate. He talked to Felix at length.

"Can you handle the gun, the shooting?" Felix asked her.

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

A NEW AND unusual three-in-one berry is called the Boysenberry. It is a cross between three famous old favorites, the blackberry, raspberry and loganberry.

As illustrated in this Garden-Graph, this new three-in-one berry grows to be exceptionally large, in fact, they are often half again as large as the Youngberry which, until the advent of the Boysenberry, had been considered the largest of berries. An average Boysenberry will be from one and one-half to one and three-fourths inches long. The color of the Boysenberry is the same as the Youngberry, although it is less seedy and more highly flavored.

The Boysenberry vines grow large in size and should be planted at least six feet apart. It is best to plant them where they can be trained upon a trellis or wires much as grapes are grown.

Plant aphids, lacewing flies on rhododendrons, oyster shell scales on lilacs, tent caterpillars, and the dogwood and flowering quince scale insects, should all be watched.

FEAR CITED AS LARGE BARRIER TO CROP PLAN

Agriculture Expert Says Any Change In National Setup Studied

FOOD SUPPLY STRESSED Benefit For Farmers And Consumers Cited

COLUMBUS, May 19—Opposition to any change in the national social organization usually is based upon the fear that the change threatens the economic status of the individual, and fear prevents clear understanding of the proposed plan, according to assistant secretary of agriculture, Harry L. Brown, Washington, D. C., in speaking to an audience at Ohio State university.

Secretary Brown was explaining the social significance of the national farm program and stated that some of its opponents claimed it was a program of scarcity. The Washington official declared that the program not only was designed to produce an abundant supply of food and fiber crops for normal demands, but also makes provisions for stored surpluses in warehouses and elevators and also a reserve of soil fertility which could be drawn upon at any time.

Conditions Considered

He pointed out that a national farm program must consider agricultural conditions in all sections of the nation and can not fairly provide advantages for any one farming section at the expense of others. The farm program also must consider the welfare of consumers as well as producers.

The secretary said that both farmers and consumers would be benefited by this program which tends to eliminate wide variations in crop production and the consequent extreme ups and downs of prices for farm products. He stated that the welfare of city residents and of farmers is interdependent, each depends on the other's prosperity to provide a market for goods produced.

Secretary Brown is a native of Georgia and he said that the per capita income of farmers in that state at the time of the last census was considerably below $200 per year. He asked if people with that amount of purchasing power could become very good customers for Ohio's factories or farms. He declared that most rural residents in the South do not go barefoot because of choice but because they lack money to buy shoes.

The speaker admitted it is difficult to convince people that their social responsibilities extend beyond the limits of their lawns or their line fences but he believes that the national attitude is changing and that reading and thinking will teach people that no group can succeed indefinitely at the expense of other groups.

KAI-SHEK FLEES BY AIRPLANE AS KEY CITY FALLS

Defenders Fight For Every Foot Of Territory Before Admitting Defeat

grenade to take the North railroad station, a Japanese army spokesman said.

Dispatches indicated that the battle was one unmatched for ferocity in more than 10 months of warfare.

Infantrymen fought hand to hand without quarter in the rain from 8 a. m. until nightfall, trampling the bodies of their dead and wounded. Japanese artillery shells rained into the eastern part of the city. Airplanes dropped bombs on the Chinese munitions dumps and the roar of terrific explosions added to the pandemonium as flames shot up from burning buildings. The eastern railroad station was reported destroyed.

Terauchi Views City
Gen. Juichi Terauchi, Japanese supreme commander and a former war minister, flew daringly over the city, observing what seemed the final phase of a fight during which the Chinese had held his men back for months and inflicted on them the most humiliating defeats of their military history.

Japanese estimated that 200,000 Chinese were retreating from the area or joining in the defense of the city, and they hoped to trap some of them with the aid of a column that, taking the city of Suhsien to the south, was marching rapidly northward.

As night approached, a big Japanese force moved toward the city from a line two miles north of it, to join in a new mass assault.

Navy planes joined the army planes as the infantry took two Chinese airports on the outskirts, and the combined fleets began a bombardment of retreating Chinese, streaming down the roads to the Southwest while their rear guard defended Suhsien with orders to make the Japanese victory as costly as possible.

Chinese authorities at Hankow, the emergency capital, denied persistently that the Japanese had entered the city but reports to the contrary were so circumstantial as to leave little doubt of their authenticity.

LONDON—Great Britain sought to smooth out new obstacles to a friendship treaty between Italy and France, arising largely from Italian support of the Spanish insurgents. The French have been alarmed by the difficulties of assuring Italian and German withdrawal from Spain after the war in order to prevent them from establishing strong bases across her unguarded Pyrenean frontier.

PRAGUE—Czechoslovakian Nazis were reported to have rejected the government's new statutes designed to settle the complaints and threats of the German minority. Minor clashes between Nazis and Czechs continued.

ROME—King Victor Emmanuel was reported planning to visit Nazi Fuehrer Adolf Hitler in Berlin in July, in another demonstration of solidarity of the Rome-Berlin axis. King George of Great Britain, is scheduled to make a similar visit to Paris to emphasize France-British solidarity.

The director general of public health in San Salvador is reported conducting a campaign against holding hands.

HEAVY RAINFALL CAUSES DAMAGE IN LAKE REGION

BY UNITED PRESS

Northern Ohio was given a good soaking today by a sudden storm that reached cloudburst proportions in some places, caused widespread property and crop damage, and flooded low sections.

The early morning deluge, accompanied by lightning, was reported heaviest in the area around Cleveland, including Akron, Kent, Sandusky, Elyria, and Lorain.

Four houses were struck by lightning at Akron and several families living in the Cuyahoga valley had to be rescued by rowboat when 1.05 inch of rain fell in three hours.

Subways under the New York Central tracks were flooded and several streets were roped off in Sandusky when 3.83 inches of rain fell in three and a half hours. City Manager R. L. J. Wagar called out the city street force to pump away the water.

Many acres of land in Erie, Huron, Sandusky and Seneca counties were under water after the storm. This area was flooded a year ago but drainage ditches, built since then, helped to carry away the water today.

Rush-hour traffic was slowed down by the storm in Cleveland and sewers were clogged. Rainfall there was .96 inch.

Other parts of the state reported lighter rainfall. The United States weather bureau predicted additional showers tonight and Friday.

TWO UNHURT AS AIRPLANE NOSES OVER AT BOSTON

BOSTON, May 19—(UP)—Roys Arthur Ellis Jr. of Detroit, a Harvard sophomore, and a passenger escaped injury today when their Stinson monoplane nosed over in a forced landing on mud flats off the Boston army base.

Ellis, 23, is a licensed pilot and is employed part-time by E. W. Higgins Airways Inc., of Canton, whose plane he was flying.

The pilot telephoned Boston airport, which he had left less than 20 minutes previously, and informed officials that no one was hurt when he made the crash-landing.

Officials said Ellis was a competent pilot, had done considerable flying and had an "instrument rating," a high standard among aviators. They said he was studying aeronautics at Harvard.

FRANCE TO DENY ARMS SHIPMENT THROUGH NATION

PARIS, May 19—(UP)—The foreign office announced today that France intends to maintain Spanish non-intervention and to refuse to permit trans-shipment of arms through her territory to Spain, even if any nation makes such a demand.

No such demand has been made, the statement said, despite reports circulated her and abroad to that effect. The rumors originated in the rightist morning newspaper Epoque, under the signature of Henri De Kerillis, head of the Spanish Nationalist propaganda service, who said Russia had threatened to get together with Berlin if France refused to enable Russia to arm Catalonia.

Premier Edouard Daladier also issued a formal statement, declaring that France is capable of defending her frontiers and colonial empire unassisted. He expressed indignation over the "whispering campaign" of recent days, apparently aimed at causing the French government trouble in relations with London, Rome and Moscow. He promised punishment for the offenders.

"Tomorrow's" Highways needed NOW!

Route No. 23, Morris County, New Jersey. The accident rate on roads like this is usually only a small fraction of the general average.

... Build them with safe, money-saving CONCRETE

THINK what broad "double-track" highways like this, between principal population areas, would mean to this state. You may think of such roads as being for a future generation. The fact is, they are urgently needed NOW, not merely to reduce congestion and driving time and permit continued development of this state—not only to reduce accidents and save lives—but to save money!

If properly designed and built of concrete, divided highways like this will pay for themselves through reduced maintenance, saving in time and cost of travel, deaths and injuries prevented, progress insured.

And remember, concrete provides an even, dependable surface, sure traction rain or shine, utmost visibility at night—qualities vital to the protection of you and your family while on the road.

Thought He Was in Grip of Neuritis and Rheumatism

Hands, feet, elbows and back ached and pained him day and night. Says Vendol acted as a mild diuretic to his kidneys, gave wonderful relief.

Vendol will not "cure" rheumatism, nor will it "cure" neuritis, but if the pains that you are suffering from and which you believe to be rheumatism or neuritis are caused by accumulations in the body due to poor elimination or constipation, you can be sure Vendol will bring the greatest relief you ever expected, which has been the experience of many people right here in this city and nearby vicinity. One of the best reliable citizens who has been greatly helped by Vendol, is Mr. A. J. Edmondson, who says:

For years I had suffered from sluggish kidneys and constipation. Only strong laxatives would keep me moving. My hands and limbs were full of pains and sometimes I could not move. Even the bed covers made me pain worse. My nerves were quivery and my sleep was broken. "I started on the Vendol treatment which seemed to be just what I needed because it quickly relieved my constipation and acted as a mild diuretic to my kidneys. grenade to take the North railroad station, a Japanese army spokesman said.

Dispatches indicated that the battle was one unmatched for ferocity in more than 10 months of warfare.

Infantrymen fought hand to hand without quarter in the rain from 8 a. m. until nightfall, trampling the bodies of their dead and wounded. Japanese artillery shells rained into the eastern part of the city. Airplanes dropped bombs on the Chinese munitions dumps and the roar of terrific explosions added to the pandemonium as flames shot up from burning buildings. The eastern railroad station was reported destroyed.

Terauchi Views City

Gen. Juichi Terauchi, Japanese supreme commander and a former war minister, flew daringly over the city, observing what seemed the final phase of a fight during which the Chinese had held his men back for months and inflicted on them the most humiliating defeats of their military history.

Japanese estimated that 200,000 Chinese were retreating from the area or joining in the defense of the city, and they hoped to trap some of them with the aid of a column that, taking the city of Suhsien to the south, was marching rapidly northward.

As night approached, a big Japanese force moved toward the city from a line two miles north of it to join in a new mass assault.

Navy planes joined the army planes as the infantry took two Chinese airports on the outskirts, and the combined fleets began a bombardment of retreating Chinese, streaming down the roads to the Southwest while their rear guard defended Suichow with orders to make the Japanese victory as costly as possible.

Chinese authorities at Hankow, the emergency capital, denied persistently that the Japanese had entered the city but reports to the contrary were so circumstantial as to leave little doubt of their authenticity.

LONDON—Great Britain sought to smooth out new obstacles to a friendship treaty between Italy and France, arising largely from Italian support of the Spanish insurgents. The French have been alarmed by the difficulties of assuring Italian and German withdrawal from Spain after the war in order to prevent them from establishing strong bases across her unguarded Pyrenees frontier.

PRAGUE—Czechoslovakian Nazis were reported to have rejected the government's new statutes designed to settle the complaints and threats of the German minority. Minor clashes between Nazis and Czechs continued.

ROME—King Victor Emmanuel was reported planning to visit Nazi Fuehrer Adolf Hitler in Berlin in July, in another demonstration of solidarity of the Rome-Berlin axis. King George of Great Britain, is scheduled to make a similar visit to Paris to emphasize Franco-British solidarity.

The director general of public health in San Salvador is reported conducting a campaign against holding hands.

HEAVY RAINFALL CAUSES DAMAGE IN LAKE REGION

BY UNITED PRESS

Northern Ohio was given a good soaking today by a sudden storm that reached cloudburst proportions in some places, caused widespread property and crop damage, and flooded low sections.

The early morning deluge, accompanied by lightning, was reported heaviest in the area around Cleveland, including Akron, Kent, Sandusky, Elyria, and Lorain.

Four houses were struck by lightning at Akron and several families living in the Cuyahoga valley had to be rescued by rowboat when 1.05 inch of rain fell in three hours.

Subways under the New York Central tracks were flooded and several streets were roped off in Sandusky when 5.83 inches of rain fell in three and a half hours. City Manager R. L. J. Wagar called out the city street force to pump away the water.

Many acres of land in Erie, Huron, Sandusky and Seneca counties were under water after the storm. This area was flooded a year ago but drainage ditches, built since then, helped to carry away the water today.

Rush-hour traffic was slowed down by the storm in Cleveland and sewers were clogged. Rainfall there was .96 inch.

Other parts of the state reported lighter rainfall. The United States weather bureau predicted additional showers tonight and Friday.

TWO UNHURT AS AIRPLANE NOSES OVER AT BOSTON

BOSTON, May 19—(UP)—Roys Arthur Ellis Jr. of Detroit, a Harvard sophomore, and a passenger escaped injury today when their Stinson monoplane nosed over in a forced landing on mud flats off the Boston army base.

Ellis, 23, is a licensed pilot and is employed part-time by E. W. Wiggins Airways Inc., of Canton, whose plane he was flying.

The pilot telephoned Boston airport, which he had left less than 20 minutes previously, and informed officials that no one was hurt when he made the crash-landing.

Officials said Ellis was a competent pilot, had done considerable flying and had an "instrument rating," a high standard among aviators. They said he was studying aeronautics at Harvard.

FRANCE TO DENY ARMS SHIPMENT THROUGH NATION

PARIS, May 19—(UP)—The foreign office announced today that France intends to maintain Spanish non-intervention and to refuse to permit trans-shipment of arms through her territory to Spain, even if any nation makes such a demand.

No such demand has been made, the statement said, despite reports circulated her and abroad to that effect. The rumors originated in the rightist morning newspaper Epoque, under the signature of Henri De Kerillis, head of the Spanish Nationalist propaganda service, who said Russia had threatened to get together with Berlin if France refused to enable Russia to arm Catalonia.

Premier Edouard Daladier also issued a formal statement, declaring that France is capable of defending her frontiers and colonial empire unassisted. He expressed indignation over the "whispering campaign" of recent days, apparently aimed at causing the French government trouble in relations with London, Rome and Moscow. He promised punishment for the offenders.

"Tomorrow's" Highways needed NOW!

Route No. 23, Morris County, New Jersey. The accident rate on roads like this is usually only a small fraction of the general average.

... Build them with safe, money-saving CONCRETE

THINK what broad "double-track" highways like this, between principal population areas, would mean to this state. You may think of such roads as being for a future generation. The fact is, they are urgently needed NOW, not merely to reduce congestion and driving time and permit continued development of this state—not only to reduce accidents and save lives—but to save money!

If properly designed and built of concrete, divided highways like this will pay for themselves through reduced maintenance, saving in time and cost of travel, deaths and injuries prevented, progress insured.

And remember, concrete provides an even, dependable surface, sure traction rain or shine, utmost visibility at night—qualities vital to the protection of you and your family while on the road.

MICHIGAN'S WOLVERINES FAVORED TO TAKE BIG TEN TRACK MEET

252 ATHLETES TO PARTICIPATE IN BIG EVENT

Watson, Fenske, Albritton Expected To Feature Saturday Events

INDIANA TO BE FAST

Mighty Dash Men Missing From Competition

COLUMBUS, May 19—(UP)—The names of Western conference track and field stars extending from the pre-war days of Arlie Mucks of Wisconsin down to last season's constellation, become targets for a new group of athletes here tomorrow when the 38th annual Big Ten championships open. The discus record Mucks set in 1916 is the oldest mark in the Big Ten books and it is one of the tight conference records experts regard as in danger of being smashed. The other marks that may fall are in the 440, the one and two mile runs, the high jump, shot put, pole vault and mile relay.

Preliminaries in six track and four field events will be held tomorrow. Finals in all events are scheduled Saturday.

252 in Competition

A record-breaking field of 252 competitors is entered, and included among the athletes are some of the nation's top-flight performers.

Heading the list of individual brilliants are Bill Watson, winner of three events a year ago, and his Michigan teammate, Ralph Schwarzkopf; Charles Fenske, recognized as the greatest collegiate miler in the nation, and pole vaulter Milton Padway of Wisconsin; George Halcrow of Chicago; and Ohio State's Olympic high jumper, Dave Albritton.

Watson, the 1937 victor in the shot put, discus and broad jump; and Halcrow, the ace of the conference's 440 yard men, are the only individual champions back for a defense of crowns won a year ago at Ann Arbor.

Watson, another of a long line of brilliant Negro athletes who have worn the Maize and Blue of Michigan, is counted on as a certain victor in his three specialties and is the prime reason the Wolverines have been made the odds-on choice for the team title.

In addition to Watson, Michigan possesses great strength in the two mile event with Schwarzkopf, the early season conqueror of the tireless Don Lash at the Penn Relays; in the hurdle events where it has Elmer Gedeon and Stanley Kelley; and in the high jump where Les Allen is counted upon as a point-getter.

A four-way battle looms for second place in the team race. The contenders for the runner-up spot are Indiana, Wisconsin, Iowa and Ohio State.

The events that threaten to steal the spotlight in a meet that long has been dominated by dashmen of the caliber of Ward, Tolen, Simpson and Owens, are the one and two mile runs.

Fenske Favored
Fenske is the favorite in the one mile, but faces stern competition from diminutive Tommy Deckard and Jim Smith of Indiana; and Michigan's duo of Schwarzkopf and Harold Davidson. In the two mile, Schwarzkopf, Deckard and Smith figure to battle it out with Walter Mehl of Wisconsin and the Ohio State pair of Paul Benner and Jim Whitaker.

The entrants in the dash events appear below par, and for the first time in many seasons the existing marks in the 100 and 220 are not jeopardized.

Glenn Cunningham, veteran Kansas star, will run a special exhibition mile Saturday in connection with the meet. He will be paced in an effort to break a world's record.

The average U. S. farm woman works 66 hours a week, studies by the University of Oregon indicate.

Where to Put Crowd Big All-Star Game Question

CINCINNATI, May 19—(UP)—The battle among American and National league diamond stars for places on the teams that will clash here July 6 in the sixth annual All-Star game was quickened today following a meeting of baseball's major league advisory committee.

High Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis; President William Harridge of the American league; Ford Frick of the National league; Warren Giles, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds; Harry Murdough, ticket manager of the Reds; and Leslie O'Connor, secretary of Landis, held an all-day meeting here yesterday to work out arrangements for this season's renewal of the "dream" game.

At the conclusion of the gathering it was announced that the All-Stars teams would again be selected by the votes of the managers in each league. The squads will be comprised of 23 men each and every team must be given at least one representative.

In contrast to former years the number of players to be selected for any one position will not be limited. Previously the squads were composed of eight infielders; six outfielders; three catchers and six pitchers.

The personnel of the rival teams for the All-Star game will be announced on June 27.

In case the teams can not play on July 6, the game will be played the following day. If conditions prevent the contest then it will be cancelled.

The biggest problem the advisory council faced was for handling the sale of the approximate 26,000 tickets that will be available to the public.

The entire public ticket sale will be handled by the Cincinnati club. Mail reservations for tickets will be accepted starting next Monday. The reservations will be filled starting June 14.

The price for box seats was set at $2. The entire grandstand will be reserved with the tickets selling for $1.75 each.

Five days before the game 4,500 bleacher seats will be placed on sale. They will be priced at 60 cents each. A limited number of general admission, standing room tickets will go on sale at the field one hour before the game.

'MYSTERY JOHN' READY TO OPEN NATIONAL TOUR

HOLLYWOOD, May 19—(UP)—John Montague, who tried to keep his golf game secret and thereby became an international figure, today by announcing that he would barnstorm the United States in an exhibition tour and then compete in national tournaments.

The purported super-golfer, whose links wizardry has grown to a modern legend, indicated that details still were incomplete, but said definitely the junket will be held—"As soon as a few things are settled."

"I wish I could tell you more," Montague said, "but I can't simply because I don't know any more myself. Nothing further will be known for several days."

Two points have been settled. Montague will play with George Von Elm, a "businessman golfer," who has been competing as an amateur and a professional for more than 15 years. The tour will be supervised by Robert Harlow, former P. G. A. tournament director, now manager of the Ellsworth Vines-Fred Perry professional tennis series.

Ace Hurler Returns Home For Treatment After Being Hit By Ball

DIZZY SHOWS STRENGTH

Cub Tosser Throws Ball Before Contest

NEW YORK, May 19—(UP)—The St. Louis Cardinals, their pitching staff already weakened by the sale of Dizzy Dean, lost another ace today when Lon Warneke left for St. Louis with an ailing leg.

Warneke was struck on the right shin by a line drive off the bat of Brooklyn's Babe Phelps on May 8 in St. Louis. He finished the game for his third victory of the season. A week later while working against Cincinnati, he retired after four innings, complaining of his leg.

Yesterday Warneke hobbled around at Ebbets field, Manager Frank Frisch ordered his leg examined and the fibula bone was found severely bruised three inches above the ankle. He was sent home for treatment by Dr. Robert Hyland, club physician.

"He wanted to stay with the team," Frisch said, "but it's best that he go home. Maybe it's serious, maybe it's not."

He said Warneke would be out for more than a week—and perhaps longer.

As the Cards' pitching woes increased, the Cubs' seemed to be improving. Dizzy Dean gave his $250,000 arm a brief workout yesterday at the Polo grounds and afterwards expressed confidence that it would be sound soon.

After two weeks of absolute rest, Dean pitched for 10 minutes before the Cardinal-Giants game.

"It felt fine," Diz said. "Dizzy was nice and loose," said Manager Charlie Grimm. "I have every reason to believe he'll come back."

Sailors consider it good luck to have an anchor tattooed on their arms.

FELLER CLAIMS FIFTH VICTORY OVER MACKMEN

CLEVELAND, May 19—(UP)—Bob Feller, who week after week plays his role of baseball's "Cinderella kid" with more finesse, has abandoned attempts to "pump" his blazing fast ball past American league batsmen to the exclusion of all other kinds of pitches, but today the 19 year old ace of the Cleveland Indians nevertheless was well on his way toward leading the circuit in strikeouts.

Feller hung up his fifth victory of the season here yesterday when the Indians gained their third straight victory over the Philadelphia Athletics by a 7 to 2 count.

Feller, working craftily under the direction of shrewd Rolfe Hemslay, set five of the Athletics down on strikes to bring his seasonal total to 50 strikeouts in 59 innings.

A year ago, although out of action for an extended period due to an arm injury, Feller struck out 150 batsmen in the 149 innings he worked. Other three American league hurlers topped his total. "Lefty" Gomez of the New York Yankees led the hurlers in this department with 194. He worked 278 innings. Next in line were "Red" Ruffing of the Yankees and "Buck" Newsom of the Browns.

Feller, working for the first time since he beat the Yanks on May 12, showed signs that the lay-off the weather had enforced upon him had affected his control. He was wilder than at any time this season and passed eight men. However, the Iowa farm boy granted only six hits and was supreme in the pinches.

FIRPO PROVING STAR TOSSER IN TOLEDO LINE UP

COLUMBUS, May 19—(UP)—The baseball fame through which the name of Fred (Firpo) Marberry sticks in the mind of diamond fans is his heroic work for the Washington Senators in 1929 when he participated in 49 games and pitched 250 innings as a relief hurler. But today Marberry is a starting pitcher and winning regularly for the Toledo Mudhens.

Marberry turned in a seven hit performance against Indianapolis last night to give Toledo a 4 to 2 decision and boost the Mudhens to within one game of third place in the American Association standing.

Toledo combined four hits in the eighth inning to push across a pair of runs and break a 2 to 2 deadlock.

Lloyd Johnson, Indianapolis southpaw, was nicked for 11 hits by Toledo.

Les Willis, rookie left hander, outpitched Nate Andrews to give Louisville a 5 to 3 victory over the cellar-dwelling Columbus Red Birds.

The games between Milwaukee and Indianapolis and Kansas City and St. Paul were postponed because of rain.

MICHIGAN'S WOLVERINES FAVORED TO TAKE BIG TEN TRACK MEET

252 ATHLETES TO PARTICIPATE IN BIG EVENT

Watson, Fenske, Albritton Expected To Feature Saturday Events

INDIANA TO BE FAST

Mighty Dash Men Missing From Competition

COLUMBUS, May 19—(UP)—Coveted records inscribed beside the names of Western conference track and field stars extending from the pre-war days of Arlie Mucks of Wisconsin down to last season's constellation, become targets for a new group of athletes here tomorrow when the 38th annual Big Ten championships open. The discuss record Mucks set in 1916 is the oldest mark in the Big Ten books and it is one of the tight conference records experts regard as in danger of being smashed. The other marks that may fall are in the 440, the one and two mile runs, the high jump, shot put, pole vault and mile relay.

Preliminaries in six track and four field events will be held tomorrow. Finals in all events are scheduled Saturday.

252 in Competition

A record-breaking field of 252 competitors is entered, and included among the athletes are some of the nation's top-flight performers.

Heading the list of individual brilliants are Bill Watson, winner of three events a year ago, and his Michigan teammate, Ralph Schwarzkopf; Charles Fenske, recognized as the greatest collegiate miler in the nation, and pole vaulter Milton Padway of Wisconsin; George Halcrow of Chicago; and Ohio State's Olympic high jumping star, Dave Albritton.

Watson, the 1937 victor in the shot put, discus and broad jump; and Halcrow, the ace of the conference's 440 yard men, are the only individual champions back for a defense of crowns won a year ago at Ann Arbor.

Watson, another of a long line of brilliant Negro athletes who have worn the Maize and Blue of Michigan, is counted on as a certain victor in his three specialties and is the prime reason the Wolverines have been made the odds-on choice for the team title.

In addition to Watson, Michigan possesses great strength in the two mile event with Schwarzkopf, the early season conqueror of the tireless Don Lash at the Penn Relays; in the hurdle events where it has Elmer Gedeon and Stanley Kelley; and in the high jump where Les Allen is counted upon as a point-getter.

A four-way battle looms for second place in the team race. The contenders for the runner-up spot are Indiana, Wisconsin, Iowa and Ohio State.

The events that threaten to steal the spotlight in a meet that long has been dominated by dashmen of the caliber of Ward, Tolen, Simpson and Owens, are the one and two mile runs.

Fenske Favored
Fenske is the favorite in the one mile, but faces stern competition from diminutive Tommy Deckard and Jim Smith of Indiana; and Michigan's duo of Schwarzkopf and Harold Davidson. In the two mile, Schwarzkopf, Deckard and Smith figure to battle it out with Walter Mehl of Wisconsin and the Ohio State pair of Paul Benner and Jim Whitaker.

The entrants in the dash events appear below par, and for the first time in many seasons the existing marks in the 100 and 220 are not jeopardized.

Glenn Cunningham, veteran Kansas star, will run a special exhibition mile Saturday in connection with the meet. He will be paid in an effort to break a world's record.

The average U. S. farm woman works 66 hours a week, studies by the University of Oregon indicate.

Where to Put Crowd Big All-Star Game Question

CINCINNATI, May 19—(UP)—The battle among American and National league diamond stars for places on the teams that will clash here July 6 in the sixth annual All-Star game was quickened today following a meeting of baseball's major league advisory committee.

High Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis; President William Harridge of the American league; Ford Frick of the National league; Warren Giles, general manager of the Cincinnati Reds; Harry Murdough, ticket manager of the Reds; and Leslie O'Connor, secretary of Landis, held an all-day meeting here yesterday to work out arrangements for this season's renewal of the "dream" game.

At the conclusion of the gathering it was announced that the All-Stars teams would again be selected by the votes of the managers in each league. The squads will be comprised of 23 men each and every team must be given at least one representative.

In contrast to former years the number of players to be selected for any one position will not be limited. Previously the squads were composed of eight infielders; six outfielders; three catchers and six pitchers.

The personnel of the rival teams for the All-Star game will be announced on June 27.

In case the teams can not play on July 6, the game will be played the following day. If conditions prevent the contest then it will be cancelled.

The biggest problem the advisory council faced was for handling the sale of the approximate 26,000 tickets that will be available to the public.

The entire public ticket sale will be handled by the Cincinnati club. Mail reservations for tickets will be accepted starting next Monday. The reservations will be filled starting June 14.

The price for box seats was set at $2. The entire grandstand will be reserved with the tickets selling for $1.75 each.

Five days before the game 4,500 bleacher seats will be placed on sale. They will be priced at 60 cents each. A limited number of general admission, standing room tickets will go on sale at the field one hour before the game.

'MYSTERY JOHN' READY TO OPEN NATIONAL TOUR

HOLLYWOOD, May 19—(UP)—John Montague, who tried to keep his golf game secret and thereby became an international figure, dropped his mysterious demeanor today by announcing that he would barnstorm the United States in an exhibition tour and then compete in national tournaments.

The purported super-golfer, whose links wizardry has grown to a modern legend, indicated that details still were incomplete, but said definitely the junket will be held—"As soon as a few things are settled."

"I wish I could tell you more," Montague said, "but I can't simply because I don't know any more myself. Nothing further will be known for several days."

Two points have been settled. Montague will play with George Von Elm, a "businessman golfer," who has been competing as an amateur and a professional for more than 15 years. The tour will be supervised by Robert Harlow, former P. G. A. tournament director, now manager of the Ellsworth Vines-Fred Perry professional tennis series.

LON WARNEKE'S INJURY HURTS CARD CHANCES

Ace Hurler Returns Home For Treatment After Being Hit By Ball

DIZZY SHOWS STRENGTH

Cub Tosser Throws Ball Before Contest

NEW YORK, May 19—(UP)—The St. Louis Cardinals, their pitching staff already weakened by the sale of Dizzy Dean, lost another ace today when Lon Warneke left for St. Louis with an ailing leg.

Warneke was struck on the right shin by a line drive off the bat of Brooklyn's Babe Phelps on May 8 in St. Louis. He finished the game for his third victory of the season. A week later while working against Cincinnati, he retired after four innings, complaining of his leg.

Yesterday Warneke hobbled around at Ebbets field. Manager Frank Frisch ordered his leg examined and the fibula bone was found severely bruised three inches above the ankle. He was sent home for treatment by Dr. Robert Hyland, club physician.

"He wanted to stay with the team," Frisch said, "but it's best that he go home. Maybe it's serious, maybe it's not."

He said Warneke would be out for more than a week—and perhaps longer.

As the Cards' pitching woes increased, the Cubs' seemed to be improving. Dizzy Dean gave his $250,000 arm a brief workout yesterday at the Polo grounds and afterwards expressed confidence that it would be sound soon.

After two weeks of absolute rest, Dean pitched for 10 minutes before the Cardinal-Giants game.

"It felt fine," Diz said. "Dizzy was nice and loose," said Manager Charlie Grimm. "I have every reason to believe he'll come back."

The speedy track and grid athlete checked with all his teachers before he left to determine his credit standing . . . He will receive credit for all subjects taken, thus entitling him to play football . . . Frank Woodward, Chuck Zaenglein, Paul Walters, Bob Liston, Art Rooney, Bill Heffner, Russ Liston, Bob Bowsher, Screwy Martin, Tom Harden, Dub Nelson, and the co-captains, Johnny Noggle and Gene Arledge, many of whom will be regulars next fall, are already talking about football, many wishing the season were here already . . .

Rains of the last few days have brought a splendid growth of grass on the high school gridiron, the green tufts appearing in many places that school authorities did not expect them . . . There are still a couple of open dates on the Tiger schedule which Faculty Manager Virgil Cress is trying to fill . . . It is possible that Urbana, scheduled and then dropped at the Champaign county school's request, may be re-booked since Roy Black, ex-Urbana mentor, will be in Circleville next year.

FELLER CLAIMS FIFTH VICTORY OVER MACKMEN

CLEVELAND, May 19—(UP)—Bob Feller, who week after week plays his role of baseball's "Cinderella kid" with more finesse, has abandoned attempts to "pump" his blazing fast ball past American league batsmen to the exclusion of all other kinds of pitches, but today the 19 year old ace of the Cleveland Indians nevertheless was well on his way toward leading the circuit in strikeouts.

Feller hung up his fifth victory of the season here yesterday when the Indians gained their third straight victory over the Philadelphia Athletics by a 7 to 2 count.

Feller, working craftily under the direction of shrewd Rollie Hemley, set five of the Athletics down on strikes to bring his seasonal total to 50 strikeouts in 59 innings.

A year ago, although out of action for an extended period due to an arm injury, Feller struck out 150 batsmen in the 149 innings he worked. Other three American league hurlers topped his total. "Lefty" Gomez of the New York Yankees led the hurlers in this department with 194. He worked 278 innings. Next in line were "Red" Ruffing of the Yankees and "Buck" Newsum of the Browns.

Feller, working for the first time since he beat the Yanks on May 12, showed signs that the lay-off the weather had enforced upon him had affected his control. He was wilder than at any time this season and passed eight men. However, the Iowa farm boy granted only six hits and was supreme in the pinches.

FORGET THE HONORS

NO MORE serious mistake can be made in bidding than to favor one declaration over another just because it contains honors which may be scored above the line. Of course, if one declaration offers exactly as good a chance for game as the other, nobody can be blamed for considering them. But favoring one form of bidding because of the honor count when another extends a better chance to make game or slam is the same thing in principle as selling your birthright for a mess of pottage.

North naturally had nothing to do but bid 3-No Trumps. West made an inspired lead. Considering his club suit hopeless through lack of sufficient entries, he decided that diamonds might afford a better defense, so led the diamond 3. Down went the poor declarer.

How much better if South had opened with a bid of spades. When holding a five-card major, it may be laid down as an almost unbreakable rule that no trump should not be the opening bid. As the cards lay, six-odd could be made at spades, by getting an early diamond discard on clubs before trying the trump finesse.

A player who likes to score honors was tempted by the aces in the South hand of this deal, so decided to open the bidding with a call of no trump. His holding was too strong for a mere bid of one, however, according to his reckoning, so he made it 2-No Trumps.

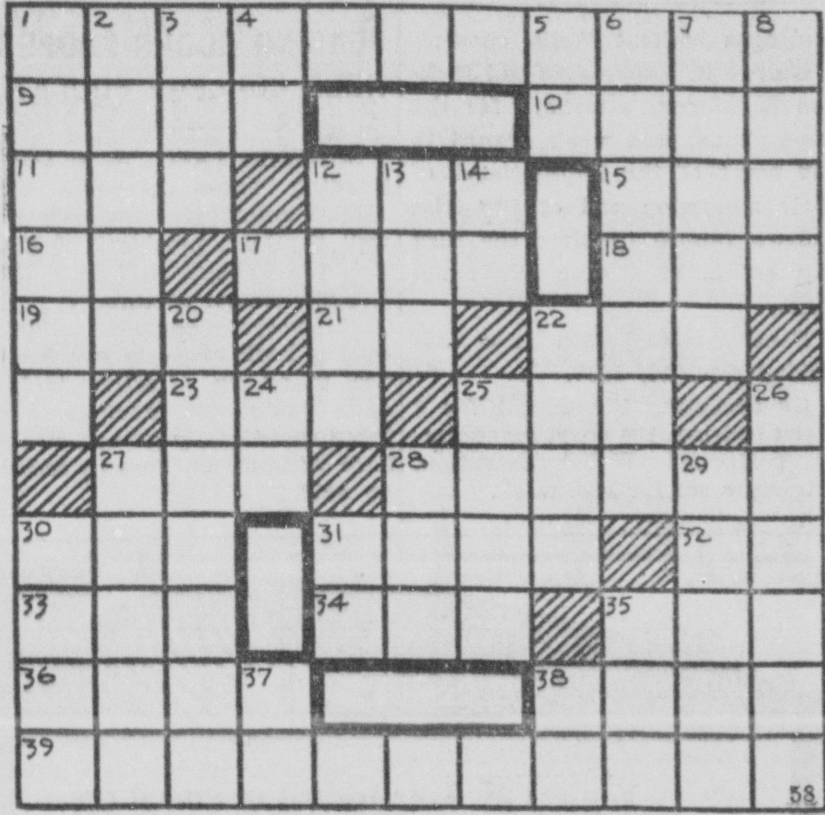

What is the correct bidding of this deal and the correct play of the first three tricks?

COUNCIL VOTES RESOLUTIONS, ORDINANCE TO SPEED DISPOSAL PLANT

FIRST PAYMENT OF U. S. MONEY ASKED BY CITY

Waiver Of Usual Procedure In Granting Project's Funds Sought

TESTING CONTRACT LET Auditor To Trade Bonds For Notes

Two resolutions and an ordinance involving the municipal disposal plant were passed by council Wednesday evening.

A resolution was adopted authorizing a request for a government waiver of a rule governing the first payment of federal funds for the plant from P.W.A. The resolution explained that under the regulations of P. W. A. the sponsor must deposit its full share of the project before a federal grant is paid. Under the city's lease agreement with the Container Corporation, the resolution explained, a payment of $15,000 by the company is to be made at a later date. The city asked that the government grant the first payment, expected to amount to about $34,000, before all of the city's share is deposited.

$15,000 If Needed

The city passed a $75,000 bond issue for the plant and is just completing a $15,000 issue for additional funds. An allocation of $61,363 was granted by P.W.A. The Container Corporation agreed to provide $15,000, if needed, for the plant construction. The firm's payment will be made when the expenditures for the plant total $136,363. Carl C. Leist, solicitor said, making a total of $151,363 for the project.

Council accepted a second resolution authorizing the city auditor to deliver bonds in exchange for notes recently issued to provide the city's additional $15,000 for the plant. The bonds bear interest at two and three-quarters percent. The bonds will be issued to George T. Lennon & Co., Columbus, purchaser of the notes.

An ordinance passed under suspension of rules provides for the director of public service to contract with H. C. Nutting & Co., Cincinnati, for testing materials to be used in the plant construction. Quotations of four testing laboratories in Ohio were obtained by Floyd G. Browne, of Marion, the city's engineer on the disposal plant project.

Unit prices for testing various materials are: cement, two cents a barrel; concrete sand, $4 per sample; concrete stone, $12 per sample; concrete cylinders, $1.75 per cylinder; building brick, $12 per sample, and reinforcing steel, twenty-three cents a ton. The aggregate cost of the testing is not to exceed $400.

GIRL STUDIES MECHANICS FOR FLYING BACKGROUND

CLEVELAND (UP)—Sixteen-year-old Mildred Luce, whose ambition is to learn to fly, is taking a course in automobile mechanics at Collinwood high school.

"I want to be able to tune up my own plane's motor when I become a pilot," she says.

The first girl to take the course Miss Luce admits she spent some time "looking for a lefthanded monkey wrench."

Council Approves Bigger Headquarters for Police

Council appropriated $100 Wednesday evening for improving the office formerly used by W.P.A. as police headquarters. The ordinance, passed under suspension of rules, provided for the improvement of the room under the direction of the board of control, consisting of W. B. Cady, mayor, Karl Herrmann, safety director, and L. E. Miller, service director.

Mayor Cady plans to install a railing and counter in the room and desks for himself, the chief of police and the patrolman on office duty. The W. P. A. office was moved this week to the second floor of the city building in the room formerly used by the National Reemployment service. Present police headquarters will be used for a locker room for officers and a search room for prisoners.

An ordinance to appropriate $67.50 for the city's share of rent for additional space for the W.P.A. women's projects was given a second reading. Due to crowded conditions at the relief headquarters on E. Main street it was necessary to rent additional space in the Goldfederick building. The city and county are dividing the rent expense, amounting to $15 monthly.

STATE MAY BUY SITES FOR PARKS ON LAKE ERIE

COLUMBUS, May 19—(UP)—A subcommittee's recommendations for expenditure of approximately $800,000 for acquisition of park sites along the Ohio shore of Lake Erie will be submitted shortly to a full committee authorized by the legislature to plan park developments, it was understood today.

A subcommittee composed of Sen. A. D. Baumhart, R., Erie, Conservation Commissioner Lawrence Woodell, and Mayor C. L. Teegardin, Oak Harbor, yesterday drafted a report to be placed before the full committee.

It will recommend acquisition of three park areas, it was reported, situated along the southern lake shore. Erie, Ottawa, Lake and Ashtabula counties were said to be under consideration as those in which parks might be recommended.

The plan contemplates expenditure of approximately $800,000, of which the legislature would appropriate $600,000 and the conservation council from its fund, $200,000.

CONCORD, N. H. (UP)—Carl Hill fortified his Summer camp against intruders when he closed it last fall. Opening it this season, he found the place littered with overturned lamps, broken dishes and torn linen. WASHINGTON, May 19—(UP)—J. Warren Madden, chairman of the National Labor Relations board, denounced critics of the Wagner Labor act today as opponents of labor's right to organize and bargain collectively, and warned violators of the act that the board intends to continue its "vigorous enforcement" policy. Speaking over a nation-wide network of the Columbia Broadcasting system last night, Madden opened an educational campaign to acquaint the public with and to counteract criticism of the board's work.

The first of a series of addresses planned for the near future, he praised "those employers who have led the way toward acceptance of this law," and said that most of the criticism had come from "editors and publicists who do not read the (board's) decisions."

LEGAL APPEAL OF AKRON KILLER PROVIDES STAY

COLUMBUS, May 19—(UP)—The strange legal appeal of George Wells, 22-year-old convicted Akron killer, today gave the young occupant of Ohio penitentiary's death row an added stay of execution of his death sentence.

The Ohio supreme court Wednesday agreed to review the merits of Wells' plea that his counsel had no right to admit his guilt in the slaying of George

Pantages without Wells' consent. George R. Hargreaves and Jackson B. Morris, attorneys for the young man, last week argued to the court of the impropriety of their admission and of the trial judge's failure to offer the jury the option of finding Wells not guilty.

Pantages was slain in a cafe holdup Dec. 16, 1937.

By accepting the appeal for a merit hearing, the court indefinitely postponed Wells' execution, originally set for last week.

READING BOOKS PROPERLY HELD COLLEGE EDUCATION

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (UP)—Reading books properly would abolish college faculties, Dr. Roswell G. Ham, president of Mount Holyoke College, said in a Union College chapel lecture.

"If everyone could learn how to read a book properly and how to use it as an effective tool for daily living, the faculties in colleges could easily go out of existence without any loss to society," he said.

Leist, solicitor said, making a total of $151,363 for the project.

Council accepted a second resolution authorizing the city auditor to deliver bonds in exchange for notes recently issued to provide the city's additional $15,000 for the plant. The bonds bear interest at two and three-quarters percent. The bonds will be issued to George T. Lennon & Co., Columbus, purchaser of the notes.

An ordinance passed under suspension of rules provides for the director of public service to contract with H. C. Nutting & Co., Cincinnati, for testing materials to be used in the plant construction. Quotations of four testing laboratories in Ohio were obtained by Floyd G. Browne, of Marion, the city's engineer on the disposal plant project.

Unit prices for testing various materials are: cement, two cents a barrel; concrete sand, $4 per sample; concrete stone, $12 per sample; concrete cylinders, $1.75 per cylinder; building brick, $12 per sample, and reinforcing steel, twenty-three cents a ton. The aggregate cost of the testing is not to exceed $400.

GIRL STUDIES MECHANICS FOR FLYING BACKGROUND

CLEVELAND (UP)—Sixteen-year-old Mildred Luce, whose ambition is to learn to fly, is taking a course in automobile mechanics at Collinwood high school.

"I want to be able to tune up my own plane's motor when I become a pilot," she says.

The first girl to take the course Miss Luce admits she spent some time "looking for a lefthanded monkey wrench."

Pickaway Farmer Astonished at Quick Relief Ton Jon Gave

Declares he has no more trouble with gas in the stomach, acid risings, nervousness or constipation since taking this new medicine.

Mr. Charles Bussert, life long resident of Pickaway county, residing on Route 2 Circleville, Ohio, Member of Christian Church is one of the many who are talking of what TON JON has done. Now read what he has to say: I tried so many medicines without results that I actually began to believe that relief simply wasn't to be had. I have been constipated for a long time, I lost my appetite completely and the little food I did eat always distressed me, it seemed to lay heavy in my stomach, hot acid fluid would arise in my mouth, gas would make me swell up and press against my heart, at night I would toss and role I hardly had a good nights sleep in years, my breath was very bad, my nerves were all shot to pieces and the least little thing would disturb me and make me quiver inside.

I read about this new medicine that was being introduced at Hamilton and Ryan and decided to give it a try and after taking it a few days I could raise the most decided changed over me, all the acid rising, gas and heartburn didn't bother me in the least, my digestive troubles have entirely disappeared, my appetite has returned and for the first time in

Council appropriated $100 Wednesday evening for improving the office formerly used by W.P.A. as police headquarters. The ordinance, passed under suspension of rules, provided for the improvement of the room under the direction of the board of control, consisting of W. B. Cady, mayor, Karl Herrmann, safety director, and L. E. Miller, service director.

Mayor Cady plans to install a railing and counter in the room and desks for himself, the chief of police and the patrolman on office duty. The W. P. A. office was moved this week to the second floor of the city building in the room formerly used by the National Reemployment service. Present police headquarters will be used for a locker room for officers and a search room for prisoners.

An ordinance to appropriate $67.50 for the city's share of rent for additional space for the W.P.A. women's projects was given a second reading. Due to crowded conditions at the relief headquarters on E. Main street it was necessary to rent additional space in the Goldfrederick building. The city and county are dividing the rent expense, amounting to $15 monthly.

STATE MAY BUY SITES FOR PARKS ON LAKE ERIE

COLUMBUS, May 19—(UP)—A subcommittee's recommendations for expenditure of approximately $800,000 for acquisition of park sites along the Ohio shore of Lake Erie will be submitted shortly to a full committee authorized by the legislature to plan park developments, it was understood today.

A subcommittee composed of Sen. A. D. Baumhart, R., Erie, Conservation Commissioner Lawrence Woodell, and Mayor C. L. Teegardin, Oak Harbor, yesterday drafted a report to be placed before the full committee.

It will recommend acquisition of three park areas, it was reported, situated along the southern lake shore. Erie, Ottawa, Lake and Ashtabula counties were said to be under consideration as those in which parks might be recommended.

The plan contemplates expenditure of approximately $800,000, of which the legislature would appropriate $600,000 and the conservation council from its fund, $200,000.

Closed Camp Vulnerable, Chimney Wasn't Closed

CONCORD, N. H. (UP)—Carl Hill fortified his Summer camp against intruders when he closed it last fall. Opening it this season, he found the place littered with overturned lamps, broken dishes and torn linen. In a corner of the living room he found the marauder — a frightened duck which had entered through the fireplace chimney.

N. L. R. B. CHIEF ASSAILS FOES IN RADIO TALK

WASHINGTON, May 19—(UP)—J. Warren Madden, chairman of the National Labor Relations board, denounced critics of the Wagner Labor act today as opponents of labor's right to organize and bargain collectively, and warned violators of the act that the board intends to continue its "vigorous enforcement" policy.

Speaking over a nation-wide network of the Columbia Broadcasting system last night, Madden opened an educational campaign to acquaint the public with and to counteract criticism of the board's work.

The first of a series of addresses planned for the near future, he praised "those employers who have led the way toward acceptance of this law," and said that most of the criticism had come from "editors and publicists who do not read the (board's) decisions."

LEGAL APPEAL OF AKRON KILLER PROVIDES STAY

COLUMBUS, May 19—(UP)—The strange legal appeal of George Wells, 22-year-old convicted Akron killer, today gave the young occupant of Ohio penitentiary's death row an added stay of execution of his death sentence.

The Ohio supreme court Wednesday agreed to review the merits of Wells' plea that his counsel had no right to admit his guilt in the slaying of George

Pantages without Wells' consent. George R. Hargreaves and Jackson B. Morris, attorneys for the young man, last week argued to the court of the impropriety of their admission and of the trial judge's failure to offer the jury the option of finding Wells not guilty.

Pantages was slain in a cafe holdup Dec. 16, 1937.

By accepting the appeal for a merit hearing, the court indefinitely postponed Wells' execution, originally set for last week.

READING BOOKS PROPERLY HELD COLLEGE EDUCATION

SCHENECTADY, N. Y. (UP)—Reading books properly would abolish college faculties, Dr. Roswell G. Ham, president of Mount Holyoke College, said in a Union College chapel lecture.

"If everyone could learn how to read a book properly and how to use it as an effective tool for daily living, the faculties in colleges could easily go out of existence without any loss to society," he said.
